County Budget Up $3.27 Million

BY LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

The Ulster County preliminary budget for 1973, complete with substantial raises for those who run the government, is up $3.27 million from 1972 but never-the-less offers taxpayers a slight reduction in taxes for the fourth time in five years.

Part of the increase in the total appropriation of $32.6 million, up from $29.3 million in 1972, is for welfare which Chairman of the Legislature Peter J. Savago said has increased about $3 million in the past year.

But, if the appropriation is up, so too are the revenues which are conservatively estimated at $24 million, up $1.6 million from 1972, due mainly to revenue sharing sales tax and surplus.

The amount to be raised by taxes is $8,546,085, down $117,637 from $8,663,722 in 1972.

Included in the appropriations are raises for the chairman of the legislature, the majority and minority leaders and the 30 remaining legislators totaling $69,800. The budget indicates that no requests for raises were made but that they were recommended by the budget committee.

Specifically the 1973 budget requests a raise of from $7,500 to $12,000 a year for the chairman, from $4,000 to $7,000 for the majority leader and from $3,700 to $6,000 for the minority leader.

Special

The legislators, currently receiving $3,000 annually, would receive $5,000, upon approval of the budget.

Under budget recommendations the county clerk who presently receives $13,000 would receive the $6,000 raise giving him an annual salary of $19,000. The county attorney would be increased from $11,200 to $14,000, a $2,800 raise and, the director of personnel would be raised from $11,235 to $12,000, an increase of $765.

In the case of the county clerk, for instance, a large raise has been recommended because according to law a person holding that and other similar three year posts, cannot receive raises except in the year of the term they are elected to office. Others affected who would not presently receive raises include the district attorney and other three-year office holders who did not run for office this year.

A number of salaries would stay the same including those of the sheriff, ($15,000), election commissioners, (part-time $3,500), probation director, ($12,267), director of health, ($26,300), public relations director, ($13,175), district attorney, ($25,000), veteran's service director, ($10,572), county treasurer ($14,000), mental health director, ($30,000).

Increases in salaries are also recommended for the county, family and surrogate court judges who would receive boosts of $1,075 each bringing their respective salaries to $31,075 annually. The county auditor's pay would be raised from $11,235 to $12,000, the director of the assessment department, from $13,650 to $14,500; social services commissioner from $17,000 to $18,000; director of social services from $10,628 to $13,000 and a like increase for the director of administration, Social Services Department.

Also increases for the director of Data Processing from $14,759 to $16,500 and his assistant from $9,806 to $12,784. The director of the Ulster County Chest Clinic would receive an increase of from $22,500 to $26,500, a raise of $4,000. The narcotic addiction control director would receive a $1,000 raise from $14,000 to $15,000 and the administrative assistant of the Election Board would be raised from $8,750 to $10,000.

Several changes in the office of the district attorney are recommended. The posts of first assistant district attorney and one other assistant district attorney, now part time, would be made full time with a raise of from $8,500 to $20,000 for the first assistant and from $7,000 to $17,000 for the second assistant. All other part time assistant's salaries would remain the same.

Sales tax revenues received to Oct. 16 of this year amounted to $3,123,612.59 and the budget committee of which Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago is chairman, is estimating $3.4 million for 1973. Other members of the committee include: Ernest Gardner (R-Dist. 11), Richard D. Nace (R-Dist. 2), Clifford W. Snyder (R-Dist. 1), majority leader; Richard F. Thornton (D-Dist. 1), Louis M. Klein (D-Dist. 7), Douglas V. Dye, (R-Dist. 2), Robert H. Kuhlmann, (R-Dist. 10) and Dr. Gerald P. Gorman (D-City), minority leader.

Council Approves Center, Accepts 'Dietz Pool' Grant

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

The Common Council gave its approval to a storefront drug treatment center on Broadway and accepted $200,000 from a Kingston businessman for a swimming pool in Dietz Stadium to highlight action at Monday night's lengthy but productive monthly meeting of the aldermen.

Both requests for legislation came from Mayor Francis R. Koenig who sought and got prompt action from the Council. The aldermen gave Koenig permission to accept up to $200,000 from Vincent J. Andretta Sr., president of the Andretta Foundation, toward the cost of a swimming pool "either covered or uncovered" at Dietz Stadium. The money will be used to pay for what is expected to be a $400,000 complex at the Stadium with the Andretta Foundation paying half, or the city's share of the project. The legislation also stipulates that the area will be named "The Andretta Recreational Center." The legislation also calls for application by the city within 60 days for state and/or federal funds for the project and establishes a three-member advisory committee, one person to be named by the donor (Andretta) and the other two to be named by the mayor. The legislation also stipulates that in the event the plans for the swimming pool do not reach fruition (because of failure of the federal or state governments to approve them) the $200,000 will be used for some other recreational purpose in a manner to be agreed upon by the Andretta Foundation and the city.

The Council gave Mayor Koenig permission to sign a lease with the Ideal Camera Corp., owners of 609-611 Broadway at a monthly rental of $230 to establish a storefront narcotics treatment center. Alderman John E. Finch (D-Fifth Ward), responding to numerous questions on the proposal, said that Mayor Koenig had told him he planned a meeting with the full Council, the Kingston Narcotics Guidance Council and the Friends of Renaissance for a thorough discussion of the storefront and its operation before signing any agreements.

A motion to table the legislation for further study was defeated by a 7-5 vote last night. Final approval was by a 10-2 vote with Aldermen Brian D. Smith (R-Third Ward) and Titus B. Sims (R-13th Ward) voting against it.

In other action, the Council rejected one request for a zoning change and approved another, both unanimously.

The request from Our Homes Inc. to build a 120-unit apartment complex off Grandview Avenue between Pearl Street and Miller's Lane was turned down by the Laws and Rules Committee of the Council, its chairman Alderman Donald E. Quick (D-Sixth Ward) noting possible sewage, water and traffic problems if the complex were approved. The aldermen, without debate, went along with Quick's committee's recommendation.

Tho Heading for Paris, Another Peace Parley Seen

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Le Duc Tho, North Vietnam's chief peace negotiator, headed for Paris today for what Radio Hanoi said was another meeting with the Americans on the Vietnam war.

Tho stopped over in Peking to confer with Premier Chou En-lai, the Chinese official news agency Hsinhua reported. There was no hint as to how long Tho would stay in Peking. Tho also is expected to stop in Moscow for discussions with Soviet leaders before flying to Paris.

There was speculation that the two main U.S. negotiators, Henry A. Kissinger and Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., were en route to Paris, but the White House said both were in Washington.

U.S. spokesmen said they could neither confirm nor deny that the private talks to end the war were about to resume as was widely anticipated.

U. S. bombers raid supply depot south of Hanoi. Story on page 5.

South Vietnam, meanwhile, announced today it would agree to withdrawal of North Vietnamese troops from the South by stages instead of the total withdrawal at once that it had demanded earlier.

The Radio Hanoi broadcast today said North Vietnam, "to show its good will and seriousness," had agreed to "another private meeting between the United States and the Democratic Republic of Vietnam to solve the signing of the agreement on ending the war and restoring peace in Vietnam."

It said the meeting was proposed by "the U.S. side."

Kissinger and Haig conferred with Nixon for one and one-half hours at the President's Camp David retreat Monday following Haig's return from four days of talks with South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu in Saigon.

Both men next went by helicopter to Andrews AFB, which is a frequent departure point for official missions abroad.

There was no announcement on the details of the Camp David discussions, but U.S. officials in Saigon said Haig, who is Kissinger's top aide, had narrowed the differences in his talks with Thieu on the American and South Vietnamese positions on a cease-fire.

Haig carried a personal note to Nixon from Thieu, but its contents were not disclosed.

South Vietnamese Foreign Minister Tran Van Lam announced today that, while his government is agreeable to a partial withdrawal of North Vietnamese troops from the South, it wants the rest of the troops regrouped in specified zones for gradual withdrawal under international supervision later.

South Vietnam also said it wanted to be represented in any further secret talks between Kissinger and Tho, who reached agreement last month on a tentative cease-fire proposal.

South Vietnam's chief negotiator, Pham Dang Lam, was reported en route to Paris, talks with Thieu on the Ameri-

Autumn Storm Hits Hard, Leaves Death, Destruction

By United Press International

A powerful pre-winter storm raked the nation's midsection Monday, unleashing a virtual Pandora's Box of meteorological maladies and leaving death and destruction in its wake.

Blizzard-proportion snows clogged roadways in the Plains, stranding motorists and closing airports.

Traffic was halted in and out of Eppley Airfield at Omaha, Neb. Nearby Offutt Air Force base headquarters for the Strategic Air Command, the world's largest nuclear strike force, was snowed in. A SAC spokesman said its airborne jet command—the Looking Glass—which remains in the air constantly in case the ground base at Omaha is hit by a nuclear attack, was diverted to another base for landings.

(In Ulster County up to four inches of slushy snow covered the ground in mountain areas early today and commuter traffic was slowed by a combination of snow flurries and hail at the peak morning hour.)

Belleaire Ski Center reported a four inch accumulation today with snow still falling. Up to an inch of snow was reported in the Cooper Lake - Woodstock section. In Kingston nine-tenths of an inch of rain was recorded before the hail-snow mix got underway.)

At least one death was attributed to the Midwestern snowstorm. A 30-year-old mother of six was electrocuted when she fell on a snow-downed power line in Fairbury, Neb.

The storm system sent tornadoes and high winds spinning through southwest and central Texas, killing at least two persons, injuring at least 30 others and causing more than $1 million damages.

Nebraska traffic was nearly immobilized by the snowstorm, described by Omaha police as the worst in two years.

Savage winds swept across lower Lake Michigan, sending waves crashing along the Chicago shoreline, swamping highways, stalling cars and forcing police to close sections of the roads.

The southern edge of the storm did its damage with twisters and violent winds, sweeping eastward through the Gulf states, blowing houses and trailers off their foundations and unroofing houses and barns. One tornado hit the Gulf Oil Co., refinery at Port Arthur, Tex., demolishing a cooling tower "like some giant had just stepped on it."

The first European winter storm abated today after slicing viciously through six countries in a rampage that flooded thousands of homes, snarled sea and land communications and killed more than 50 persons.

The main impact of the storm struck both East and West Germany, Britain, Ireland, the Netherlands, Belgium and France.

$50 Million in 'Hash' Seized

NEW YORK (UPI)—For two months federal agents kept members of an alleged hashish smuggling ring under surveillance, hoping members of the gang could be decoyed into a trap set for them.

The lure of big money apparently proved irresistible. The federal Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs (BNDD) announced Monday the arrest of seven persons, including two college teachers, in connection with the seizure of millions of dollars worth of hashish, possibly the largest quantity of the drug ever confiscated at one time in the United States.

The BNDD said the street value of the 1,100 pounds of hashish was about $50 million. This breaks down to more than $2,800 an ounce at "street" value but sources familiar with the business said hashish generally sells for $100-$200 per ounce at the street level. Jerry Jensen, BNDD associate regional director, said, "We have had other large hauls before but never such a large stash in a single place."

Jensen said the trap for the undercover agent posing as a "large scale Pennsylvania trafficker" who wanted to buy 400 pounds for $200,000.

The hashish was to have been delivered last week at a Manhattan hotel but the deal was canceled at the last minute when federal surveillance men and the drug dealer's security people "ran into each other in the hotel lobby and the hotel's stairways."

"We almost lost the deal," Jensen said but explained the federal agents convinced the drug sellers they were dealing with "genuine" narcotics traffickers, not lawmen.

"Our undercover agent turned the thing around on them and set the deal for Saturday," Jensen said. The undercover agent had a $200,000 cash payoff with him and "showed it to (the suspects) as a sign of good faith" to keep the sale alive, Jensen said.

The two college teachers allegedly involved in the seizure of the drug, smuggled into this country from Morocco to supply a drug ring serving New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and New Mexico, were arrested during simultaneous raids Saturday in Piscataway, N.J., and New York City.

Authorities said one of them was James Krell, 21, Piscataway, an assistant teacher at Livingston College in Piscataway. The other was identified as Paul Chaleff, a teacher at City College in New York.

The other suspects were Steven Abelman, 24, Piscataway; Peter Axelrod, 26, New York; Steven Lieberman, 25, New York; Harris Damon Lesavoy, 24, Allentown, Pa.; and Stephen H. Miller, 21, Albuquerque, N.M.

Slutskys Plead 'Innocent'

NEW YORK CITY — Nevele Country Club owners, Ben J. and Julius Slutsky, under indictment for alleged evasion of federal income taxes on unreported income of $1.4 million, pleaded innocent in U.S. District Court in New York City Monday.

Charged with nine counts of willful evasion, the Slutskys, if convicted, face a maximum sentence of 30 years in prison and fines of up to $60,000 each.

Federal Judge Murray Gurfine continued the Slutskys free in their own recognizance and assigned the case to Judge Lloyd McMahon for trial.

The indictment, presented Nov. 2, alleged that the brothers filed fraudulent partnership and individual tax returns for the years 1965 through 1967.

During the three year period, the indictment said, Julius Slutsky filed fraudulent individual returns in which he understated his personal income by $685,000 and his brother allegedly did the same by $700,000.

The government said its investigation indicated that Julius Slutsky owes $680,000 in income taxes for the three years while his brother is indebted to the government for $592,000 for the same period.

The brothers, who assumed the ownership of the Nevele in 1958 after the death of their father, Joseph Y. Slutsky, have been active in political and community affairs. Ben Slutsky is a former Ulster County Republican Committee vice chairman who relinquished his post earlier this year when it was found that a conflict of interest existed in that he was also a member of the board of Monticello Raceway and a chief stockholder in the track. He is also a member of the New York State Bridge Authority.

Julius Slutsky, an officer in the First National Bank of Ellenville has been active in Jewish charitable organizations.

NAACP Opposes Board Plan, Chapter Favors Major School

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON — The Ulster County Chapter of the NAACP has come out in opposition to the Kingston Schools Consolidated Board of Education's announced plans to build a new high school and renovate the old high school, sometimes referred to as the "dual high school plan."

The school board, meeting last Thursday announced that it had hired an architect to draw up preliminary plans for the construction of a 1,500-pupil new high school and for the renovation of the present 1,600-pupil high school off Broadway to meet a projected student enrollment of 3,000 by 1978. The board also noted that it had rejected two other alternatives to alleviate the overcrowding at Kingston High School: the construction of a new 3,000-pupil high school or the construction of two new 1,500-pupil high schools.

Everette Hodge, president of the NAACP, said the Ulster County Chapter recognized the need for additional facilities but said "we favor the building of a new high school large enough to take care of the projected needs (of the school district) for many, many years in the future."

Hodge said it would be "an added burden on the taxpayers to have two high schools with two principals and two staffs."

Hodge said that the board is

"talking in terms of $5 million for a new (1,500-student) high school and the renovation of the old one (the board has not publicly given any cost estimates on the project) but that the NAACP feels that "they can build a three thousand or four thousand student school well within the limits of that money."

Hodge also feels that the construction of a separate high school would also cause "racial problems not unlike the kind that have been experienced in Canarsie." (The all-white high school in Canarsie was closed down when 31 black students were transferred in the past two weeks).

Hodge said the membership of the NAACP also feels that the board of education should have built a new high school ten years ago ("they knew ten years ago that they would need one") instead of building several junior high schools.

"We will use every means at our disposal to try to prevent this proposal from going through," Hodge said, stating that letters would be written to both the Board of Education and the State Department of Education in opposition.

In other action, officers were nominated for 1973, with Hodge renominated for president, a post he has held since 1952. Sam Wilson was nominated for vice president, replacing Robert Jones. Annie Jackson was renominated for treasurer. Ethel Billups was renominated for recording secretary and Betty Royal was renominated as recording secretary.

Elections will take place at the December meeting of the NAACP. Hodge said Ulster County Community College has offered its facilities for the December meeting.

Rocky Warns: 'State Faces Tight Budget'

GOVERNOR NELSON A. ROCKEFELLER

HORSEHEADS, N.Y. (UPI)—Governor Rockefeller, returning to state issues after laboring for President Nixon's re-election, warns New York faces a "very tight" budget next year because of a new federal welfare ceiling.

Resuming his annual "town meetings" with stops Monday in Syracuse and Horseheads, the governor stressed a bleak fiscal picture in contrast to Democratic predictions of a rosy surplus this year.

"We're going to make it through this year all right," he said, "but next year is going to be very tight, because that ceiling on social services is going to cost us $220 million."

He said New York would suffer the loss because Congress voted a $2.5 billion ceiling on welfare payments to states—thus causing the state to get less federal aid than in this year.

With the fiscal message out of the way, Rockefeller dealt with a range of politically touchy issues in the two stops, particularly abortions, parochial aid, and flood recovery efforts.

insisted, "This is not a campaign trip."

"This is the fifth year we've done this, and it's a trip to get the public feeling on these issues for next year."

About a dozen aides and state cabinet members flanked the governor at tables in the two stops, answering questions as well-needed from the orderly, well-dressed groups of about 300 persons at Syracuse and 200 in Horseheads.

On the abortion question, the governor was politely but firmly criticized by several women at Syracuse for his support of the liberalized abortion law. He answered that he had "made the best decision I could," and that both the infant mortality and maternal death rates had declined under the law.

After the governor's reply, a well-dressed, middle-aged woman received scattered applause by saying: "The mortality rate for the 500,000 babies we have destroyed under this law is 100 per cent."

The woman later identified herself as Mrs. Janet Nolan of Syracuse, wife of a steel businessman, who said she had 11 children and had suffered five miscarriages. She said she went to the meeting after being called about it by a local nun active in anti-abortion affairs.

The issues of parochial school aid was raised by about 500 yelling, sign-carrying private school pupils and parents at Chemung County Airport. They wondered what happened to $300,000 in emergency state funds promised in October to repair flood-damaged private schools in the Elmira-Corning area.

Rockefeller was cheered after telling them over a small megaphone that the papers had to be redrawn for constitutional reasons.

"Hopefully, either today or tomorrow, the problem will be solved," the governor said.

"and the checks will be on their way." Rockefeller had to turn to his assistants several times when the complex matter of flood recovery efforts were brought up by local officials at the Southern Tier stop.

Westwood Opposition Grows

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Monday at a motel in Virginia post-election opposition to Jean Westwood's leadership of the Democratic party had scattered support a week ago but escalated Monday when five Democratic governors began an organized attempt to oust her. The five governors met Bumpers of Arkansas, said Gov. Rubin Askew of Florida added: "I happen to think Mrs. Westwood is not the person to bring the party together."

But Mrs. Westwood, who was Sen. George S. McGovern's choice to head the national committee, already has served notice she will not quit. She said last week she would fight to keep her job and that McGovern has pledged to support her. Mrs. Westwood was vacationing Monday, but an aide said she stands by her plan to stay on.

McGovern, vacationing in the Virgin Islands, said he hoped the issue of the party chairmanship would be deferred until after the holidays. He said he did not see why "any change has to be made right now."

"I'd like to play a kind of reconciling role if I could," McGovern said, adding that when his vacation is over he wants to talk over the situation with Democratic congressional leaders Mike Mansfield and Carl Albert and Sens. Edmund S. Muskie, Hubert H. Humphrey and Edward M. Kennedy.

The gathering Monday was a prelude to a meeting of all 30 Democratic governors Dec. 3 at St. Louis. That session will be held less than a week before the showdown Democratic National Committee meeting in Washington Dec. 9. It is at the national committee that Mrs. Westwood will be putting her four-year term as chairman on the line.

It was of note that two of the five governors who attended Monday's meeting—Wendell Anderson of Minnesota and Kenneth Curtis of Maine—are counted among the liberal wing of the party, normally sympathetic to the "new politics" movement that swept McGovern to the presidential nomination and took over the party machinery last summer.

The fifth governor at the meeting was Marvin Mandel of Maryland, former chairman of the Democratic governors' caucus.

Mandel told reporters there was no discussion at the meeting of a replacement for Mrs. Westwood, but it was learned several possibilities were discussed, including former Gov. Robert McNair of South Carolina, Gov. Warren Hearnes of Missouri, Lawrence F. O'Brien, Mrs. Westwood's predecessor, and Joseph Crangle, New York State Democratic chairman.

Another name that has been mentioned as a successor to Mrs. Westwood is Robert Strauss of Texas, party treasurer during O'Brien's chairmanship, but he already has opposition from Texas liberals.

Meanwhile, Crangle says changes must be made in the party to show Democrats who voted for President Nixon "we got their message."

GOP Congressman Blames Nixon, Group

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A conservative Republican congressman believes President Nixon and his re-election committee must bear the blame for the failure of the Nixon landslide to carry more Republicans into office.

Rep. Clarence J. Brown, R-Ohio, charged Monday that GOP candidates were "starved" for funds because the President's committee took the lion's share of campaign donations. He also complained that some Republicans running for Congress "were clearly spurned" in favor of Democratic incumbents "who had been helpful to the President in his first-term programs."

Brown is generally identified with the conservative wing of House Republicans. He was an editor and publisher before he was elected to Congress in 1965.

Brown predicted that Nixon "is going to have trouble with the 93rd Congress" which convenes in January. He said Nixon may not retain dominance over the party because he will be a lame duck President and many Republicans got no help from him in the campaign. Republicans must eventually find new leadership, Brown said, and it may be in the form of an "assertion of some counterpoint leadership which do with that."

Sex Discrimination . . . 'Appropriate Study Area'

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Apparent conflicts between state and federal laws governing the employment of women would be an appropriate area of study for the 1973 New York State Legislature.

That was the suggestion of Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz Monday in response to a request by Industrial Commissioner Louis L. Levine for an opinion on whether the state or federal laws prevail.

Lefkowitz said the absence of court rulings on some of labor laws makes it difficult to state flatly which statute should be followed.

Levine had noted that a number of provisions in the state labor law aimed at protecting women from being taken advantage of in employment situations conflict with the Federal Civil Rights Act of 1964 and its amendments.

The attorney general said that generally the courts have ruled that many states have laws that are unduly restrictive and therefore are in violation of the federal statute.

New York has repealed certain of the restrictive laws—such as those limiting work hours for women over 21 and prohibiting girls from becoming newspaper carriers. But Lefkowitz said certain others remain on the books.

He said there are existing provisions which prohibit girls under 16 from taking jobs that require them to be on their feet constantly, keep girls 16 to 18 from operating automatic elevators, prohibit girls under 21 from cleaning moving machinery, serving as conductors or guards on railroads or from working as messengers. Women also are prohibited from working in foundries, mines or quarries.

Another state law contains different work hour restrictions for male and female minors. Lefkowitz said, while still another state law requires special benefits and facilities for female employees. He said that under the federal law an employer cannot refuse to hire women because such facilities are not available.

A joint legislative committee is studying the sex discrimination aspects of the state's labor laws and will make its report to the 1973 legislature.

What do doctors recommend for patients in pain?

Doctors all over the country dispense over 50,000,000 of these tablets to their patients each year.

There are many medications a physician or dentist can prescribe for pain. Some are narcotic, many are available only on prescription. But there is one pain reliever, available without prescription, doctors dispense again and again... Anacin.

Each year, doctors give over 50,000,000 Anacin tablets to their patients in pain. If doctors think enough about Anacin to dispense all these tablets, what better recommendation can you ask when you are in pain?

You see, Anacin contains more of the pain reliever doctors recommend most than any other leading tablet.

Headache and dental pain is relieved incredibly fast; minor pains of arthritis are dependably eased for hours; even the aches and pains of colds and flu respond to Anacin. So the tension and depression that can be caused by such pain will be relieved too. And millions take Anacin without stomach upset.

When you're in pain, why don't you follow the practice of so many doctors and take the tablet a doctor might give you in his own office. Take Anacin.

Kingston School Board Pays Tribute to Two

By JON POWERS

KINGSTON

The Board of Education of the Kingston Consolidated School District paused during its recent meeting to pay tribute to two of its most personable and popular employees who intend to retire this year.

Accepted with "deep regret" were the resignations of Hurley School principal Ernest Myer and school board secretary Mrs. M. Rosemary Jones.

Together, they have served the school district for a combined total of almost 80 years.

Myer has served as either head teacher or principal at the Hurley School since 1941. He was one of four original teachers who instructed some 80 pupils in the four room building throughout the 1940s.

Before joining the staff at the Hurley School, he was a teacher at a one room schoolhouse in West Hurley for 14 years, and at another one room schoolhouse on Lucas Avenue before that.

The Hurley School has expanded three times since it was built in 1940. It now has an enrollment of 440 students, guided by 19 full-time teachers and more than 30 staff members.

Slight of build, with silvery white hair and an infectious smile, Myer is well-liked by both parents and students, and highly respected by his superiors and peers. "He has been one of our most dedicated teachers and administrators," said Superintendent of Schools Louis A. Salzmann. "It's a very sad occasion for us to accept his retirement, but a very happy one also, because Ernie Myer deserves a wonderful retirement and all the happiness in the world."

Myer, too, is sad to see his career at the Hurley School come to an end. "It's been very rewarding for me, and very enjoyable. I believe I will miss it. Once you get teaching in your blood, it's hard to let go."

Many of his early students still pay regular visits to the long-time administrator. Myer plans to visit the school often, as well, to reflect on the years he spent walking its corridors and guiding its destinies.

He has no special plans for retirement except, perhaps, a westward trip next summer. "I like the outdoors, but I have no real hobbies. We'll just have to see what happens."

Myer is a native of Hurley and, in fact, attended the first Hurley Elementary School. He was graduated from Kingston High School and the old New Paltz State Teachers College. An active member of the Hurley Reformed Church, Myer was long-time chairman of the March of Dimes in the Town of Hurley and is a charter member of the Hurley Fire Company and the Hurley Lions Club.

Myer will retire June 30, 1973.

This school year will also see the departure of Mrs. Rosemary Jones, for 31 years secretary to the school board and the Superintendent, and no doubt one of the most gracious and affable workers in the entire district.

She has become an institution of sorts: a familiar fixture at board meetings, budget hearings and the Administration Center. She has had the unenviable task of sitting through countless sessions, patiently taking notes in the midst of sometimes furious debates.

Mrs. Jones first started in the district in 1941 as secretary to then Superintendent of Schools Arthur J. Laidlaw. She has "survived" three Superintendents since then, as well as numerous administrators and a hundred board members.

"She has been my strong right arm for years," said her present boss, "and a good part of my left one." Salzmann added, "The board will surely miss the services of the best secretary we've ever had."

Mrs. Jones' resignation is effective Dec. 31. The Dec. 7 meeting of the school board will be her last.

UCCC Plans Program

STONE RIDGE

A group of community businessmen are meeting at the Stone Ridge campus of Ulster County Community College today to explore the possibility of establishing a Service Technician program.

The meeting is being held to determine if there is a need for such a program and to determine what job opportunities might be available for graduates of such a program if it should be established.

The businessmen invited to attend include Francis Endler, service manager of Montgomery Ward, Kingston; Ted Jones, Montgomery Ward service manager, Poughkeepsie; Joseph Scholier, of Scholier Inc., Kingston; William Davenport, of Walter Davenport and Sons Inc., High Falls; Alvin Werbalowsky, of Al's Appliance Center, Kingston; Lloyd Whitaker, a service technician located on Neighborhood Road, Lake Katrine; Ted McWhorter, of Sears, Roebuck and Co., Kingston; and Arthur Motzkin, of the Kingston Oil Supply, Port Jervis.

Among those attending from the College is Dean of Faculty Robert J. Markes.

Seminar Speaker Scheduled

STONE RIDGE

Larry Schwartz, a director of the Institute for Continuing Education in New Paltz, will speak on New Horizons in Advertising at 10 a.m. Monday, Nov. 20, at the Stone Ridge campus of Ulster County Community College.

The talk, scheduled for the John C. Quimby Auditorium in Vanderlyn Hall, is part of a two-day seminar on The Changing Market Place being co-sponsored by the Business Studies Advisory Council and the Division of Business at UCCC. The seminar is open to the general public without charge.

Schwartz has taught for a number of schools and organizations, including the Bernard M. Baruch Graduate School of Business, the New York University Management Institute, the IBM Management School and the State University of New York at New Paltz.

He has been associated with a number of advertising agencies and formerly was publisher of Travel Books Inc. and president of the Publishing Industry Development Corp.

His publications include the World Travel Almanac and numerous articles in books, newspapers and magazines. He earned a B.A. Degree from Union College and an M.A. Degree from Columbia University and has done additional graduate study at Yale University, Harvard University and the University of Michigan.

Other speakers at the Nov. 20 and 21 seminar will deal with changes in retail business, franchising and consumerism.

The purpose of the seminar is to provide students with an opportunity to hear experts discuss topics of mutual interest in the area of business.

School Closing Announcement

BOICEVILLE

When school closings in the Ontario Central School District are necessary due to hazardous road conditions or adverse weather conditions, announcements will be made via local radio stations starting at 6:30 a.m.

If a school closing becomes necessary during the school day, the radio stations will advise parents of the time that the students would be leaving school.

Parents and students are requested not to call the radio station or school administrative personnel to inquire about school closings. They will announce it as soon as they receive the information from the proper authorities.

Deepest Raids in Seven Months

B52s Pound Viet Supply Depot

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. B52s raided a supply depot 125 miles south of Hanoi late Monday and today in the deepest raids into North Vietnam by the big bombers in nearly seven months. In the ground war, South Vietnamese militiamen suffered heavy casualties in withdrawing from an outpost in the Central Highlands. Military sources said 79 Communist dead were put at five. The battle started at sundown Monday four miles south of the provincial capital of Kontum. Saigon spokesmen said two militiamen were killed and eight wounded and denied any were missing. North Vietnamese forces were the Stratofortress' deepest penetration of North Vietnam since April 25, when they bombed Thanh Hoa, 83 miles south of Hanoi. Smaller U.S. fighter-bombers flew 220 sorties (a sortie is one mission by one plane) in the 24 hours ending at 5 p.m. on Monday, the U. S. command said. In the ground war, two South Vietnamese militia companies abandoned a strategic Central Highlands outpost late Monday night after a 10-hour battle with the Viet Cong, military sources said. About 80 government soldiers were missing and Communist losses were listed at five dead. The South Vietnamese command termed the pullback from the outpost four miles south of Kontum "a strategic withdrawal." The base is 260 miles north-east of Saigon. Three waves of B52s carried out raids six miles closer to the 20th Parallel boundary line than any strikes since April 25 when they hit the port of Thanh Hoa, 80 miles south of Hanoi. Fifteen waves of B52s flew raids inside South Vietnam, including six strikes within 35 miles of Saigon. Military spokesmen reported 71 Communist shellings and ground attacks in the 24 hours ended at 6 a.m. were reported, including 55 shellings. There were seven fewer ground battles than the previous day but 24 more shellings.

Manson Family Members Charged

STOCKTON, Calif. (UPI) — Three young women scarred with the "Manson family" insignia and three ex-cons with "Aryan Brotherhood" tattoos on their chests were charged Monday with killing an ex-Marine and his teen-age wife to keep them from talking about a crime spree. The three women and two of the men were taken into custody at a two bedroom house in this central California farming center when police found the body of Lauren Willett, 19, in the basement. The headless body of her husband, James T. ONE OF THESE BABIES WON'T BE CREATED EQUAL.

Birth defects affect some 250,000 babies born in the U.S. each year. And many of these could be prevented.

If you're pregnant, or think you're pregnant, consult a doctor immediately. The first few months of pregnancy are the most important. And your doctor can tell you how to take care of yourself and your baby before it's born.

If you or your husband know about any family history of hereditary birth defects, discuss them with your doctor, as early in pregnancy as possible.

And don't take any drugs unless your doctor prescribes them. Even drugs you've taken all your life should be checked with your doctor.

If you already have children, it's a good idea to keep them as healthy as possible, too. While some childhood diseases are not that serious in children, the effects of some viral diseases on you, unborn baby can be devastating.

And lastly, some good old-fashioned advice. Eat right. Get lots of sleep. And report any unusual symptoms to your doctor right away.

There are thousands of beautiful babies born every year. We want yours to be one of them. For more information on birth defects call (212) 677-2100.

We believe there's more to good health than just paying bills.

Brass Hats . . . Illegal Spending

WASHINGTON — We have uncovered new evidence — as shocking in the financial field as General John Lavelle's unauthorized bombing of North Vietnam — of the Pentagon's growing disregard for civilian authority.

Internal military documents in our possession reveal that the Bureau of Naval Personnel has illegally contracted to spend at least $70 million, and probably well over $100 million, without the consent of Congress.

These excesses, committed by contract if not actually paid out, are called "overobligations." The term sounds terrible technical, but the act is a serious federal crime. The Anti-Deficiency Act forbids government employees from spending or obligating more money than Congress appropriates.

In a day when cost overruns, wasteful duplication and other military squandering are commonplace, overobligations of a few million dollars may seem almost trifling. But veteran Washington budget officials warn off the severe consequences of spending even $1,000 without the consent of Congress.

One official, who requested his name not be used, commented: "If a department overobligates, all hell breaks loose. You're really in the fire then. Congress simply will not give you money if you show that you can't handle it properly."

The Pentagon, however, has taken a cavalier attitude toward the authority of Congress to restrict military spending. Some brass hats seem to feel they can spend what they like and Congress will make it good with a deficiency appropriation.

Illegal Financing
Navy documents available to us compute the overobligations for fiscal 1971 at $82,663,797.56, plus another $38,537,584.11 for fiscal 1972. Pentagon spokesmen refused to discuss the figures with us, but they have admitted to Congress that the sum for 1971 is at least $70 million.

Defense Secretary Mel Laird has kept an angered House Appropriations Committee in the dark about this flagrant financing, but committee investigators have learned informally:

(1) That the overobligations are probably coupled with actual overspending; (2) that some of the illegal contracting likely was deliberate, disturbing defiance of congressional authority; (3) that the violations fall largely in the Navy's personnel travel budget but probably include other personnel budgets as well; and (4) this flaunting of congressional control was the work not of a few isolated officials but, probably, of scores of personnel officers.

Federal agencies that spend even a few dollars more than Congress appropriates are required to submit an immediate, detailed report explaining that amount of the violation, identification of the guilty officials and what actions will be taken to prevent a recurrence. Violators can be fired, fined up to $5,000 or thrown in jail for up to two years.

Secretary Laird, in an April 12 letter to House Appropriations Chairman George Mahon, D-Tex., promised a report on the Navy violations by the end of May. Six months later, the report has yet to arrive.

When we called Laird's office to inquire about the delay, our calls were not returned. Congressional investigators were told the report has been held up "to protect the rights of accused officers."

We also asked the Navy's personnel chief, Vice Adm. David Bagley, for an explanation. But he refused to discuss the affair because "of a crowded appointment schedule." When we submitted detailed questions to Navy information officers, the inquiries produced only embarrassed silence and frantic calls to Navy higherups but no answers.

The House Appropriations Committee, outraged by the illegal overobligations and the Pentagon's refusal to respond to inquiries, has ordered four federal auditors to conduct an independent investigation of the Navy's accounting systems.

But when Congress finally learns the dimensions of the illegal contracting, who was the responsible for obligating the money and why the violations occurred, the taxpayers still will be stuck with the bill.

Asbestos Dust
While professing to crusade for clean air, the Environmental Protection Agency is preparing to weaken its own proposed standards against cancer-causing asbestos dust.

A year ago, the EPA proposed that any "visible emissions" of the lethal dust from plants or other buildings under repair or demolition should be prohibited.

The construction industry squawked loud and long until the proposals were sent back for a rewriting. At last, the new proposals are being circulated in strict secrecy within EPA's inner rooms.

"The (old) proposed regulation," states the draft report, "would have prohibited the generation of visible emissions of asbestos particulate matter resulting from repair or demolition of any building or structure other than a single-family dwelling."

"Comments have indicated that the enforcement burden associated with the proposed regulation would be severe (and) the improbability that demolition operations could be carried out in compliance with the regulation . . ."

Footnote: The Center of Science in the Public Interest, learning of the draft report, has privately written EPA boss William Ruckelshaus that the new proposal is a "mere license to pollute."

Quite an Offer

That was quite an offer of Vincent J. Andretta Sr. to contribute "up to $200,000" toward construction of a recreational center within the uptown Dietz Stadium complex.

And we can only hope that this much-needed community facility will come to fruition.

Of course, the proposal from Mr. Andretta is predicated on the City of Kingston obtaining an equal amount of capital grant funds from existing New York State and federal government recreational grant programs.

The plan, according to Mayor Francis R. Koenig, would include a 45 by 75-foot swimming pool, locker and dressing rooms, a concession facility and many other recreational facilities.

And what makes the swimming pool complex proposal even more exciting is the fact that it includes the "natorium" idea—a pool enclosed in a building with a sliding roof and sides. That would mean the pool could be utilized 12 months a year, not just two and a half months or so during the warm weather months.

The first actual step to the eventual realization of this swimming pool complex was taken Monday night when the Common Council gave Mayor Koenig authority to apply for state and federal funds.

Let's hope that the facility will have clear sailing the rest of the way.

Drive on World Crimes

The United States has no monopoly on crime, no matter what its rise in recent years has been. There is an increasing tide of crime plaguing many areas of the world. It was called to the attention of the United Nations by Secretary General Kurt Waldheim, who called on the organization for action to cope with a world crime crisis of growing proportions.

If it is objected that the United Nations is not a police body, the answer may be that law enforcement knows no national lines, that crime can still spill over all borders, that amity among nations cannot come while crime is rampant. Waldheim has focused on a new world interest.

There is a certain amount of cooperation in fighting crime today. Interpol the international police organization, has done some fine work across national boundaries. But Waldheim seems to want to go further, raising a world drive on crime to the level of the ministers of justice or interior or equivalent, to develop international policy on crime fighting.

In a country where crime prevention has only recently become a matter of national concern, the United States may be counted on to support anything that will prevent or reduce organized crime, drug addiction and white slavery. Perhaps consultation on the prevention of many other forms of crime will be useful. But halting crime must be handled on the local level, before it develops into aggressive personal criminality that overruns national boundaries.

Clean Air Guidelines

It is not enough for the Environmental Protection Agency to approve state plans to implement cleaning up the air, but it must also see that there is no significant deterioration of air quality in areas where the air is now cleaner than required by federal standards.

A judgment to this effect, rendered last May by U. S. District Judge John N. Pratt, enjoining William D. Ruckelshaus, the E.P.A. administrator, has just been upheld without comment by a three-judge panel of the Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, Judge Carl M. McGowan, Roger Robb and John A. Danaher. The administrator was ordered to maintain clean air above the standards he had set.

Environmentalists who brought the suit argued that the public works committees of both Houses, who drafted the Clean Air Act of 1970, intended that clean or relatively clean air should not be allowed to deteriorate.

The argument was based on the statement that one of the purposes of the act was to "protect and enhance the quality of the nation's resources so as to promote the public health and welfare and the productive capacity of its population." Very inspiring but the meaning is what the courts say it is, and two federal courts have now said that it means a guideline for promoting and keeping clean air.

Faced with such a broad interpretation, Ruckelshaus plans to appeal to the Supreme Court for final instructions. Of course, we want air that is clean to remain clean. But if this is what Congress meant, then it must find the means constantly to police the air against deterioration.

"Hey! Gimme a Hand, Will Ya?"

David Lawrence Says

Peace Cooperation

WASHINGTON — There is something more in the reelection of President Nixon than the big vote he won in his own country. For it is evident that the principal governments of the world view with satisfaction the news that for the next four years they will be dealing with a man who is dedicated to the cause of peace and is earnestly trying to make the role of the United States one of commercial and economic aid rather than military involvement.

It may be taken for granted that, between now and Christmas day, there will be a settlement of the Vietnam war and that a program of reconstruction and humanitarianism will be begun in Indochina, which has suffered for so many years, with hundreds of thousands of persons killed or wounded and their lands devastated.

President Nixon needs the cooperation of Hanoi and Saigon as well as Peking and Moscow, and he is determined that, once an agreement is signed, Southeast Asia will be an area of peace and that the fear of similar conflicts will be diminished everywhere.

Mr. Nixon hopes this will symbolize "a generation of peace." Actually it could not have been brought into being without the assistance of Red China and the Soviet Union. The smaller nations of both Europe and Asia will watch what happens, for in the last two decades there has been worry that war would emanate from either China or Russia.

The United States helped to build the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. But not until President Nixon began to convince the major powers of Europe and Asia of the benefits they might gain in fields important to them — the acquisition of essential goods for their huge populations — was there a sign that a new relationship could be forged.

The grain deals with Russia and the opening of trade arrangements with China are significant in the history of commerce. But they have a meaning which goes deep into international affairs. For when nations begin to trade with one another and interchange products, the whole outlook is altered.

Countries which carry on a large amount of business with each other do not usually break off relations and enter into wars. There has heretofore been little commercial intercourse with Mainland China in recent years and not much more with the Soviet Union. Now it appears that both will be part of the family of nations, and this inevitably will have a favorable effect on governmental policies.

Ever since World War II ended, troops have been kept in Europe by the United States and its NATO allies. Russia itself has had standing armies in the eastern section of that continent. The expense of maintaining military forces is heavy, but even more disturbing is the continued presence of huge bodies of troops in Eastern Europe — those of the Communist Bloc facing those of the Western countries. The big question is how long such a situation can be accepted without a mutual action of some kind to pull out armies and establish friendlier relations between all nations in Europe.

This matter which has troubled the diplomats of the world for many years, and undoubtedly the Soviets have felt that they had to station their troops in Europe to defend themselves against sudden attack. But the time may be at hand for "a generation of peace" and the withdrawal of all forces of both sides — not merely a reduction.

President Nixon probably has discussed this subject with the NATO governments as well as with the Soviets. With the progress being made today in "normalizing relations" between East and West Germany, there is a trend toward a general reorganization of the whole European situation which has remained virtually unchanged since the close of World War II.

If peace can be made in Asia, there is no reason why plans cannot be devised to assure peace in Europe. The example of Indochina and the betterment that can be achieved in the condition of the nations of Asia will certainly present challenges to bring about a better life for the peoples of Europe, which have lived for years in the shadow of another war.

"Peace in the World" will not be consummated in a short period. But the cooperation shown by China and the Soviet Union in their association with President Nixon in working out an agreement on Vietnam certainly will create hopes for an extension of similar efforts in other parts of the world where fears or war still prevail.

Bruce Bioassat Says

A Terrible Lack of Caring

WASHINGTON (NEA) — You can't travel this country for two years from ocean to ocean, as I have done, and not conclude there is something gravely lacking in the tone and spirit and substance of American life today.

I've written of this before, but I must have one more go at it. The lack surely is not yet so broad and deep as to make one despondent for the future of the country. Like anyone else who travels widely, I personally encounter hundreds of talented, good-spirited, hard-working people who are aiming high and bent devotedly toward getting there. Some young folk, especially, are astonishing in the breadth of their interests and their driving pursuit of these things.

Still, the lack is serious and at times disheartening. The impressions gathered are fragmentary, but no less strong for all of that.

Many New York City people today are virtually obsessed with the problem of their physical security, by day now as well as at night. An observer just back from there told me he found his friends and acquaintances talking of little else — even at the height of business hours.

On my now infrequent visits to downtown Washington at night, I am always freshly shocked at its emptiness. This place never was a bustling cultural capital alive with throngs until past midnight. But nowadays its center is nearly dead.

As I have noted before, touring among the nations' older established cities, mostly those in the eastern tier, it is a distressing experience. Vast areas seem in the grip of decay, almost beyond recall. Shining new skyscrapers visible close by seem like fantasies painted on glass.

The newer growing cities of the west and the Pacific slope are, to be sure, less afflicted. One prominent senator told me the other day how refreshed he was after visiting some of these cities and talking to people whose dominant mood was still an open cheerfulness.

It is hard to find the right words to describe the downbeat mood visible in the attitude and performance of so many Americans.

There is a terrible lack of caring among many in this society. It has been growing for years and years. Countless among our mounting numbers do not appear to care whether they do well or behave well. In thousands of little ways, reflected often in both major speeches and minor discourses, they show an absence of concern for other humans.

Some, sadly, may cloak this emptiness with grandstand displays of passion for "humanity" at a distance, or in the abstract. A man may fret impressively over the plight of disadvantaged grape-pickers in California, but think nothing of drowning his neighbors in the sound of a grossly amplified electric guitar pouring from an open window.

As there is too often less caring from individual to individual, so is there from group to group. I have mentioned this before. No one has put it better than did Garry Willis, the columnist, when he spoke of the broken bonds of "social affection."

We will not begin to move back, in the full sense, toward our greatness as a people until we recover our wish to care, to do well, and to behave well. We have a long way to go. With people poisoning candy and planting razor blades in apples, we have even robbed Halloween of its playfulness.

How will recovery start? Clearly we need leaders who can really touch us, in our inner selves, with appeals to be better than our best, to reach out with renewed affection toward others.

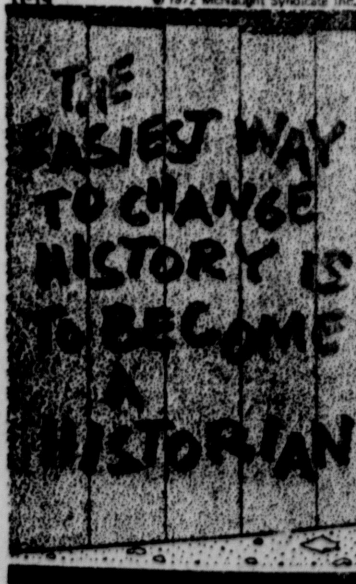

Will we respond? With our abrasive numbers growing, we do not have much time to save ourselves by turning about.

Vogt Favors Longer Term

FRANCIS J. VOGT

KINGSTON The terms of district attorneys in New York State would be increased from three to four years under an amendment to the Constitution which voters approved last Tuesday and Ulster County's District Attorney Francis J. Vogt thinks it is a good idea.

The measure will have to pass the State Legislature before it goes into effect however and it will not affect the present terms of incumbent district attorneys.

Vogt, elected to office here two years ago will have to run for reelection next year.

He said he was very pleased with the outcome of the vote because campaigns for the office of district attorney take a good deal of time . . . "time better spent behind a desk."

Terms of district attorneys in New York State have been for three years within recent memory with the exception of the district attorneys in New York City who became full time as a result of a prior amendment to the constitution.

Then two years ago a new state law was passed in which it was stipulated that all counties with a population in excess of 100,000 must have a full time district attorney. Ulster was included.

Vogt feels that additional one year added on to the three year term makes the post more palatable because "it is asking quite a bit to require an attorney to give up a law practice and subject himself to the uncertainties of political life for a short period of three years."

Also, he added, "campaigns are exorbitantly expensive and this creates quite a problem especially when one considers that a district attorney candidate, unlike any other candidate is certainly not in a position to solicit campaign contributions."

Vogt, a former FBI agent was elected Ulster County district attorney two years ago, defeating his Ellenville challenger, Alex J. Nirenberg, by a better than 2-1 margin, 30,193 to 14,993.

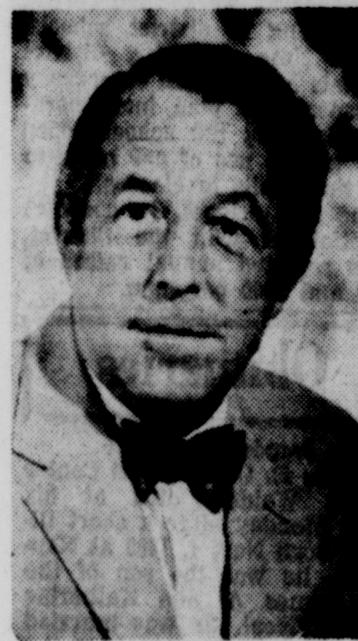

Vogt is a graduate of the University of Detroit and earned his law degree at St. John's University in Brooklyn. He was a special agent in the FBI from 1952 to 1959, serving in Washington, D.C., Atlanta and Columbus, Ga., New York City and Kingston. He entered private law practice with John L. Larkin (now a Supreme Court Justice) in 1964. He was appointed an assistant district attorney in 1960. Vogt was first assistant district attorney from 1964 until he was elected district attorney in 1970.

NEW WINDSHIELD STICKER — A new type of windshield sticker has been introduced in New York State this month by the Motor Vehicle Department, according to Assemblyman H. Clark Bell who points to one affixed to a car. The validation sticker replaces the small reflectorized tabs now used on rear license plates which are being phased out. The change-over will enable the department to save an estimated $113,000 a year on sticker production costs while providing law enforcement agencies with an additional means of vehicle registration. Motorists receive the new yellow and green stickers when they renew their registrations. (Freeman photo by Haines)

Coffman Chamber Speaker

KINGSTON The new president of the State University College at New Paltz will be the featured speaker at Executive Vice President Len Cane reported that Dr. Stanley Coffman Jr. had accepted the Chamber's invitation to appear on Tuesday morning November 21, at 7:45 in the Governor Clinton Hotel in Kingston.

DR. STANLEY COFFMAN

Dr. Coffman comes to New Paltz after spending the past

10 years at Bowling Green State University in Ohio. He served in various capacities at Bowling Green including the position of Provost in his last year at the University. He has also been professionally associated with Ohio State University and the University of Oklahoma. He was a visiting professor at the University of Washington and a visiting lecturer at both the University of Kansas and Kansas State. Dr. Coffman has authored a book, Imagism: A Chapter for the History of Modern Poetry, and has had several articles published.

The breakfast meeting, as always, is open to the public. Advance reservations are necessary. They may be made by calling the Chamber office (338-5100) no later than Monday morning November 20.

Jr. Achievement Ceremony

KINGSTON Charter presentations will be made at the Governor Clinton Hotel on Sunday, Nov. 19 at 3 p.m. by Junior Achievement of Greater Kingston, Robert E. Deitrick, president of the Board of Directors has announced.

On this occasion held once a year at the beginning of the JA year, national charters are presented to achiever companies by top management of the counseling firms. These charters authorize the JA companies to operate as full-fledged mini-businesses. Advisors to the program supplied by the counseling firms will be introduced and the color film of the local Junior Achievement program will be shown. This year there are four achiever companies: Creat TVT sponsored by Kingston Cablevision; Shadow sponsored by IBM; C-K (Coldeman-Kingston) Enterprises sponsored by Kingston Knitting Mills and Hope Enterprises sponsored by Rotron Inc. Area businessmen, parents of Junior Achievers and the public are welcome to attend.

Girl Died Of Suffocation

LACKAWANNA, N.Y. (AP) — Police said a teen-age girl whose partially clad body was found Monday afternoon in a playground near her home died of suffocation.

The autopsy report on Irene Polancarz, 17, of Lackawanna, showed the girl had been raped and listed the cause of death as "suffocation due to blunt force on the neck," police said. Detectives said the girl was struck numerous times about the head and neck and that one of those blows could have killed her.

She was last seen by her family late Sunday night, police said. She lived at 54 Odell St.

'Wheelchair Epidemic' Strikes Poughkeepsie

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y. (UPI) — Suddenly, this city looked as though it had been struck by a massive, crippling epidemic. The mayor was confined to a wheelchair as he went about his day's duties. A surgeon performed an operation while seated in a wheelchair. Students wheeled themselves around the Marist campus.

But it was not a sudden outbreak. The wheelchair epidemic was planned to make the public more aware of the problems faced by the physically handicapped. Dr. Martin Koloski, the surgeon and president of the Dutchess County Medical Society, said that, to his knowledge, this was the first time an operation was performed from a wheelchair. Koloski did a bilateral hernia operation on a three-year-old girl at Vassar Bros. Hospital while seated in a wheelchair. Aided by an electric operating table, which can be raised or lowered at will, Koloski said the operation went very well. He said the only problem was keeping the wheelchair sterilized and this was done with sterilized sheets. He would not disclose the name of the child.

Mayor Jack Economou sat in a wheelchair while conducting city business in his office. Several other officials did likewise.

A group of Marist students, known as the Circle K Club, a division of the Kiwanis Club, wheeled themselves about the campus to emphasize the plight of the disabled to the college community.

According to Kiwanis figures, 10 per cent of any city is made up of handicapped persons — blind, elderly or otherwise disabled.

Helmsman Testifies On Tragedy

SAVANNAH, Ga. (UPI) — The helmsman of the African Neptune testified Monday that he relieved a drunken seaman at the wheel of the freighter moments before it rammed a drawbridge, killing 10 motorists.

The testimony of Darling Carroll Woodall, Martinsville, Va., was given in a deposition and he was expected to appear before a Coast Guard board today for further testimony.

Woodall said that he had relieved a helmsman he identified only as Williams last Tuesday night as the 11,500-ton ship approached the Sidney Lanier Bridge at Brunswick.

"When I got there, there was quite a bit of confusion between the pilot and the AB (able bodied seaman) who was at the wheel at that time," Woodall said.

"If the man had been doing his job, the ship would have been cleared of that bridge and the accident wouldn't have happened. He was drunk. The ship itself, I felt, was in a very precarious position and I felt the ship was endangered."

Woodall said he followed the orders of the pilot to the letter. "I repeated each of these commands as they were given to me loud and clear and I applied the commands to the wheel," he said.

The freighter slammed into the bridge, knocking out a 450-foot span and sending people, cars and trucks plummeting into the swift waters of the Brunswick River.

Capt. Frank Stanejko, 49, of Bridgeport, Conn., earlier put the blame on Woodall and called it human error.

Stanejko said he gave the order "hard left rudder," but the helmsman apparently misunderstood and went hard right.

He said Woodall had been called to the wheel after the helmsman on duty had been slow to respond to an order to swing the ship to the left after it left the pier.

Deputies Investigate Burglary

ROSENDALE — The Ulster County Sheriff's Department is investigating the burglary of a summer home on Route 32 in the Town of Rosendale.

Vacirch Sabastino, of 325-48th Street, Union City, N. J., reported Monday that when he and his wife entered their cottage they found the front door pried open and the inside ransacked.

First Sergeant Donald Policastro said that a 16-inch black and white television set was missing from the cottage, but that a complete list of articles taken would not be known until the owners take an inventory. Investigation is continuing.

Meanwhile in Kingston, detectives of the Kingston Police Department are investigating two burglaries in which stereo equipment was taken.

Thieves entered the home of Bruce Broadhead, 222 East Union Street, by prying a lock off a door. Reported stolen was a tape deck and stereo speakers valued at $200.

The second theft occurred at the apartment of Dennis Ferguson, of 85 Franklin Street, where thieves allegedly took a record player and tape deck worth $200 some time Monday night or early today, police said.

Council . . .

zoning change from industrial to commercial a 1.48 acre site off Smith Avenue for the construction of a new car dealership was approved. Alderman Finch said "I'm very happy to see we have some young people with confidence in the city."

The two owners, Robert Seism and Henry Crantz are both under 30 years of age.

Also on the agenda approved by the aldermen was a request from the Kingston Housing Authority to apply to the Federal Government for $56,000 in planning funds for the proposed addition of 140 units of senior citizens housing at Wiltwyck Gardens on Albany Avenue. The Housing Authority hopes, to start construction next year on that project.

Alderman Brian D. Smith (R-Third Ward) took issue with the county's paving of upper Glen Street as it completes work on its new jail and infirmary on Golden Hill. Smith read a letter from City Engineer Thomas R. Wickman who described the streetwork as "totally unacceptable."

At the other side of town, Alderman Sinsbaugh took issue with contractors who dig up the city streets and then fail to make adequate repairs. The city is liable for any damages to vehicles as a result and Sinsbaugh said and that shouldn't be the case. Sinsbaugh cited a case of what he termed an improperly filled excavation on North Street in his ward where a man driving an oil truck sustained (in Sinsbaugh's estimate) from $1,500 to $2,000 damage to the truck when he hit the excavation. Recently, the driver-owner of the truck was Sinsbaugh's neighbor in the 11th Ward, Alderman Edward M. Norton.

Blood Bank

A blood bank drawing has been scheduled for Woodstock for Wednesday, Nov. 15 from 6 to 8 p. m. at the Dutch Reformed Church on the Village Green. All persons in good health between the ages of 18-59 may act as donors, according to the Woodstock Health Committee. No one with yellow jaundice may serve as a donor and potential donors with colds and similar infections are temporarily rejected. Fatty foods and alcoholic beverages should not be taken for at least four hours before donation.

Correction

Land owned by Edward A. and Florence M. Parmelee were incorrectly included among those to be sold for unpaid taxes in the City of Kingston, Zone 11, in Monday's legal notice.

SHOPLIFTING IS STEALING

BUT I'M A JUVENILE, NOTHING CAN HAPPEN!

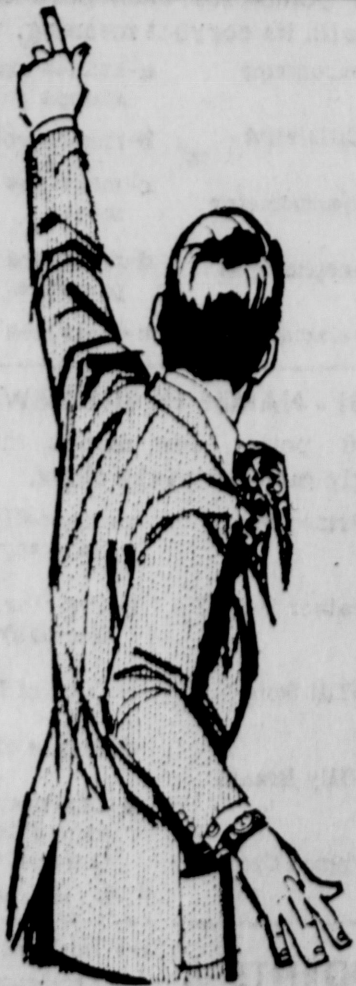

Don't believe it. True, there are separate laws governing criminal acts by juveniles, but an arrest is still an arrest and a police record is still a police record. One shoplifting conviction can seriously alter the guilty one's life. Although youngsters may go free after an apprehension, once arrested, the charge will follow them demanding explanation and causing embarrassment whenever it reappears. Don't chance it.

Bon Vivant ... Operations 'Resumed'

NEWARK (AP)—Bon Vivant, the 109-year-old canning company that shut down following the botulism death of a man who ate a can of its vichyssoise, has resumed operations under federal guidance.

A Food and Drug Administration statement says the company now has "all information necessary to operate in strict conformance with good manufacturing practices" that will prevent further occurrences of botulism poisoning in its products.

The company was shut down by FDA order July 7, 1971, seven days after Samuel Cochran, a Westchester County, N.Y., man, died after eating a can of vichyssoise, a potato soup.

Now, 16 months later, the company has changed its name to Moore and Co., Inc., and its products could be on the shelves by the end of the year.

Board Member Pleads Guilty

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Alan F. Hughes, a member of Schenectady's school board, pleaded guilty Monday to federal contempt of court charges in connection with fraudulent stock brokerage activities.

Hughes, 42, had been ordered by U.S. District Judge James T. Foley to stop selling securities in September 1971. The order was issued on allegations that Hughes kept inaccurate and incomplete records and his Hughes Brokerage Co. had insufficient funds and that Hughes attempted "devices, schemes and artifices to defraud."

Last June, Hughes was ordered to show cause why he should not be held in contempt for continuing the sale of securities despite the injunction.

In September, Hughes pleaded innocent to the contempt count and asked for a jury trial, changing his plea to guilty Monday. Foley ordered a pre-sentence investigation. There is no penalty standard for federal contempt charges.

Hughes' firm was ordered liquidated and court sources said about $200,000 has been repaid with approximately $135,000 still outstanding.

Hughes was elected to the school board last year.

FLIPPED — The much-maligned Long Island Railroad, which through the years has been the target of criticism because of its service, seems a little less hard to take at this point as traffic backs up behind a lumber truck that flipped and spilled Monday. It overturned on way to Queens Midtown Tunnel, blocking all three inbound lanes of the Long Island Expressway. (UPI)

"Who put up the money for this hospital? Our savings bank!"

Sure. In New York State, savings banks invest over a million dollars every working hour in hospitals, schools, churches, highways, public housing, libraries, and, of course, homes.

Savings banks serve individuals and families. They invest millions in the things people need.

Like a brand new hospital. For us. Now — isn't that just like a savings bank?

Helping people. That's what savings banks are all about.

Conservation Group To Discuss Jetport

NEW PALTZ airport manager Charles Martin. Organized earlier this year, the New York State Association of Conservation Commissions is a statewide organization consisting of representatives from each of the local Environmental Conservation Commissions throughout New York. The Association is divided into regions; Region 3 comprises Ulster, Dutchess, Rockland, Orange, Westchester, Sullivan and Putnam Counties. The statewide group held its initial meeting this year at Lake Minnewaska. Pointing to the great diversity within Region 3, Mrs. Wagenfohr said: "Some of the towns and villages of the area are affluent 'bed-room' communities with their economic life in nearby cities; some are highly industrialized 'factory towns'; some have mass transit, most have not; there are mansions and there are shacks, high rise condominiums, urban and rural slums. The most densely populated areas have sewage and sewage treatment plants; there are thousands of septic tanks and leaching fields, too often inadequate; and there are some outdoor privies. There are municipal water districts and individual wells or cisterns. Lifestyles and the pace of living vary, but all are interdependent parts of a geographical area, all must be concerned with the preservation of their environment; clean air they can breathe, pure waters they can drink and unsullied land on which they can live." To this end, said Mrs. Wagenfohr, the purpose of the statewide association is to begin a cooperative effort whereby regional groups can isolate the problems of their area and work towards their solution. Thursday's meeting is open to the public. Members of the region's conservation commissions are urged to attend.

The planned expansion of Newburgh's Stewart Airport will occupy much of the agenda at Thursday's organizational meeting of the Region 3 membership of the New York State Association of Conservation Commissions. The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. at the Inter-County Savings Bank on Route 299 in New Paltz. Guest speaker at Thursday's session will be David Sive, chairman of the Environmental Planning Lobby and an attorney who specializes in environmental cases. Sive's speech will deal with Stewart Jetport, and the consequences its expansion will have on the environment of the Mid-Hudson Valley. Mrs. Katherine Wagenfohr of Stone Ridge, Region 3 vice-president, will preside over Thursday's session. Mrs. Wagenfohr will also give a brief report on a recent tour of the Newburgh airport, conducted by Michael Fiumarelli, an official with the Metropolitan Transportation Authority and

Regulations Adopted in Red Hook

By TIM SCHUSTER

RED HOOK — A formalized policy on regulations for maintaining order in the Red Hook Central School district was adopted unanimously by members of the School Board Monday night.

District Principal Russell Keefe explained that the document, to be filed with the State Commissioner of Education, was primarily a more detailed account of regulations and policy already in effect.

Included in the "prohibited conduct" section of the document were references to loitering about the school grounds, inciting disturbing actions in others, obstructing "the free movement of persons and vehicles," possessing any type of deadly weapon, and the use or possession, without authorized medical supervision, "marijuana and other drugs, including barbiturates, amphetamines, LSD compounds, mescaline, psilocybin, DMT, narcotics, opiates and other stimulating, sedative, or hallucinating drugs."

The rules apply to all students, employees and visitors and are to be enforced through the auspices of the office of the chief administrative officer, with recourse to summoning police aid if necessary or seeking a court injunction to prohibit certain activities through the school attorney.

Keefe recommended attendance by a Board representative at the Mid-Hudson School Studies Council meeting Nov. 28 at Valley Central Middle School, Montgomery, N. Y., to deal with Fleischmann Commission recommendations in volumes two and three of the report.

Keefe said he had attended a conference of all chief school administrators in the state last week in Albany to review the material.

The Board also approved winter sports schedules in boys' and girls' basketball, boys' wrestling, and girls' gymnastics.

Positions filled by appointment were: assistant basketball, Peter McMahon; girls gymnastics, Ann Donnelly; assistant track, Herbert Elmore; girls' softball, Carol Libertini.

The Junior High Ski Club was given Board authorization to receive school transportation for three trips this winter to either Belleayre, Hunter, or Catamount under the supervision of Mildred Sheldon.

A final contract with Dutchess County BOCES was approved.

New Paltz Village Planning Board ...Studies' Findings 'Revealed'

By WADE BURKHART

NEW PALTZ

That the Village of New Paltz will continue to grow, Route 299 (Main Street) is a bottleneck of major proportions, and pressures will be felt in the future—as they are being felt now—for more apartments, were some of the findings of four basic planning studies undertaken for the New Paltz Village Planning Board revealed at a special meeting Monday night.

The planning board is in the process of rewriting the village's zoning ordinances, and planning board chairman Harold Onderdonk said the Monday night meeting was held for the dual purpose of keeping the public both informed and involved in the project.

The basic studies, done in the areas of population, housing, traffic circulation, and land use, were compiled by planning consultant Ralph Seligman, of the Hoboken, N.J., planning firm of Mayo, Lynch and Associates. Monday night's presentation of the facts found featured a 20-page summary pamphlet, a set of large colored maps, and Seligman himself.

According to Seligman's figures—he consulted a number of other planning studies in addition to his own research—the village should have about 4,000 people in it in 1990 not counting college students, if present density regulations are continued. The college students would add another 3,500 to that figure, Seligman said. College officials told him no substantial increase in the size of the State University College at New Paltz was anticipated. If the regulations are relaxed and higher densities allowed in selected areas, Seligman said the village could grow to about 5,400, plus college students, by 1990.

Opting for humor in what many New Paltz residents feel is a grim situation, the study claimed New Paltz had two channels "whose potential flooding acts as a constraint to development." One of the channels is the Walkkill River, of course. The other is Route 299, "where an ever-increasing volume of traffic periodically becomes a torrent with a lot of bad effects."

According to Seligman, the State of New York admits the road is presently carrying four times the maximum volume of traffic it was designed for through the village.

Though the purpose of the studies was to gather data rather than arrive at solutions, Seligman's study rejected the idea of widening 299 through the village as a means of solving the problem. "The village is completely unacceptable," the study said. "It would just encourage more traffic to use the road, and destroy the scale and intimacy of the village. The study recommended alternate east-west routes to relieve the situation."

The village should be prepared to add from 500 to 1,000 new units of housing by 1990, according to the study summary. "The availability of public transportation and commercial facilities; the relatively high cost of single family homes; the number of persons who are either relatively young or relatively old and the experience of the trends during the past 10 years indicate a demand for rental housing with small units," the study noted.

The village presently contains the goals. He said another special public meeting on the zoning revision would be held when this was done, probably in three or four months. After this was accomplished, the actual revision of the ordinances would have to be done, with another special public meeting or two, he said.

Now that the planning board has the data it needs, said Seligman, the board will meet after the meeting, it available to any interested New Paltz residents in the office of planning problems, formulate building priorities to Pritchett.

The village presently contains

Newburgh Hearings

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (UPI)

Further hearings were called today in the cases of 16 allegedly corrupt Newburgh policemen, including the chief of police, indicted by a grand jury. The pre-trial hearings were marked Monday by guilty pleas entered by two former police officers.

The grand jury, following an investigation that ran from January to July, returned 35 indictments against the 16 officers, including Chief Humbert M. Capelli. The charges included bribery, perjury, tampering with physical evidence, conspiracy, accepting bribes and extortion. In the hearings Monday, Thomas Stacklum, 28, a former patrolman, pleaded guilty to a class E felony charge of tampering with physical evidence. The charge carries a maximum of four years in prison.

Joseph R. Medina, 28, a detective at the time of his indictment, pleaded guilty to a charge of third degree attempted burglary, in connection with the loot ing of a bar in Newburgh.

Stacklum was named in 12 indictments, and Medina in seven. George Reishelm Jr. set sentence for the two officers for Jan. would be dropped, according to a spokesman for District Attorney Abraham J. Weissman's office.

Drug Help Directory Compiled by Board

POUGHKEEPSIE The Dutchess County Youth Board has compiled and published a comprehensive directory of drug abuse services available to Dutchess County residents.

The directory contains more than 60 entries, ranging from prevention, education, and therapy services to residential rehabilitation programs. Local church groups to federal agencies are included, from Dutchess, Ulster, Putnam, and Orange Counties.

Major subtitles are: prevention services, including non-professional counseling; educational services, including sources of literature on drug abuse, school and community programs; treatment services, which lists public and private psychological and medical therapy clinics; residential rehabilitation centers; funding agencies, which may fund programs involving youth drug abuse.

In preparing this directory the Youth Board submitted questionnaires to approximately 80 organizations asking for names, addresses, telephone numbers, area served, a brief description of services offered, and whether fees were charged.

Criteria for inclusion of a services in the directory took into account its suitability, availability of information about it, and its accessibility to county residents.

Gordon Wright, chairman of the Youth Board, noted that the directory was not intended as a tool for self-diagnosis and self-treatment. "Parents and young people should definitely get some professional advice instead of blindly picking out a service themselves though, of course, this is preferable to not doing anything at all about a drug problem," he said.

Some of the prevention services available, of special interest to residents of Northern Dutchess County, are: Action for Drug Abuse Prevention Training (ADAPT) in Staatsburg with Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Mark; Catholic Charities of the Archdiocese of New York in Poughkeepsie, Thomas Tighe, director.

And Rhinebeck Narcotic Guidance Council, the Rev. Henry Maertens of Third Evangelical Lutheran Church, director; YELL (Youth Emergency Line, Ltd.), Poughkeepsie, Denis Pearl, director, a toll-free telephone service.

The following school districts in the county have state-funded preventive education and counseling programs offered to students in their school, over and above the minimum state requirements: Arlington, Hyde Park, Millbrook, Poughkeepsie City, Red Hook, and Webutuck.

Some medical and psychological therapy may be obtained from: Adult Mental Health Clinic of the Dutchess County Department of Mental Hygiene, Poughkeepsie; Alcohol and Drug Abuse Clinic, County Department of Mental Health; Astor Child Guidance Clinics in Rhinebeck, Poughkeepsie, and Beacon; Medical Associates of New Paltz, serving the Mid-Hudson Valley.

And area residential rehabilitation centers listed are: Daytop Village, Inc., Millbrook; Ron Burch, director; Harmonie House Rehabilitation Center, Newburgh, the Rev. Robert

Dramatic Changes in Family Life

Older Coeds . . . Many Problems

By LYNNE OLSON
Associated Press Writer

Growing numbers of women returning to the campus after marriage and children are finding that college means more than a return to tests and textbooks. It can often mean unsettling and dramatic changes in family life.

In some cases it has led to divorce, while in others it has resulted in closer relationships with husband and children.

According to U.S. Labor Department census statistics, the number of women ages 25-34 who returned to school has almost doubled during the most recent five-year period for which figures are available. It increased more than tenfold in a 19-year span.

In 1969, the most recent year for which figures are available, 526,000 women were enrolled in colleges. That compares with 238,000 in 1964 and 47,000 in 1950.

No figures are available for women ages 35 and over, but a Labor Department spokesman said she believed the growth rate was similar.

A variety of reasons for going back to school emerged in interviews on several college campuses around the country.

Many of the women are housewives with diminishing home responsibilities who want to start on or complete college degrees and embark on professional careers. Others go back for intellectual stimulation and self-enrichment.

"I think I'm quite a different person after coming back to college," said Carol Herman, a 37-year-old mother of three studying for her bachelor's degree at Sarah Lawrence College in Bronxville, N.Y. "My whole sense of values and priorities has changed."

"The average woman who gets married at an early age is limited in her intellectual and emotional growth. When she goes back to school, she often starts changing her ideas, becomes more independent and widens her experiences."

"It can be very painful and can create a strain on a marriage. You're not the same woman your husband married."

Counselors of returning women say most of them have encouraging, supportive husbands and that many develop closer ties with their families. But if a marriage is bad, the counselors agree, a woman is usually able to accept the fact and end it.

All the women interviewed said they had developed a greater sense of self-worth and independence as a result of returning to school.

"Coming to school is frightening to these women," said Elizabeth Minnich, director of the Sarah Lawrence Center for Continuing Education, which encourages older women to go back to school.

"They're afraid they're not going to do well. Some have told me, 'All my life, men have told me I'm dumb. So I must be.' Well, they find out they're not, and it can be a great shock for them as well as for their husbands."

Many of the women interviewed said their husbands had a difficult time at first adjusting to the fact that their wives had assumed a role separate from the family.

Jean Campbell, director of the University of Michigan Center for Continuing Education of women, said, "Even supportive husbands don't feel quite as supportive in some circumstances, particularly when their wives have to study and don't seem to have time for them."

Anne Truax, director of the University of Minnesota Women's Center and the mother of five children, said she got a divorce as the direct result of going back to school to get her B.A. Now a doctoral student, she says, "My ex-husband was not able to accept anything but a traditional wife who did the housework and took care of him and the kids."

Mrs. Truax retained custody of the children, three of whom now attend the university with her.

Most of the women said once their husbands got used to the idea of their being back in school, they were delighted with the results.

The women said they developed closer relationships with their children, especially their teen-agers, as the result of the exposure to young students and the common denominator of being in the classroom.

"I've learned to accept my children as individuals, and vice-versa. We have a lot in common as students," says Judith Kierstead, 34, a mother of four who is studying for her bachelor's degree in music at the University of Michigan.

Like most of the other women interviewed, Mrs. Kierstead said she had delegated many household responsibilities to her four children, ages 7-12, because of her lack of time.

Attending classes with younger students meant colliding head-on with such moral and social issues as sexual freedom, abortion, homosexuality, the Vietnam war and smoking marijuana, the women said.

Most said they could not accept for themselves what many termed the "new ideas," but they could accept the young people who were practicing them.

"The kids in my classes were very open about living together and smoking pot," said Nanelle Buss, mother of eight children. "That's not my moral code but I wasn't turned off. They're my friends."

"Some of my friends adopted the attitude of 'Going back to school is outrageous. How dare you?'" says Margot Silverman, 37, who is studying for her B.A. at Sarah Lawrence. "I have a feeling they feel it's an implied criticism of them not being quite as smart."

'Take a Look'
NEW YORK (UPI) — Oaston Brooks walked into a police station Monday with a "glazed expression" on his face and said, "Take a good look at me," police said.
"I asked him if I could assist him," said Patrolman Ronald Knight, who was behind the desk. "He said 'I'll give you something to look at,' took out a knife and stabbed himself in the left side of the chest."
Police said they could give no motive for the stabbing.
Brooks, 31, was in serious condition at St. Mary's Hospital.

FEMALE CLIPPER — Seaman Recruit Laurie West, the second female graduate of the Naval Training Center's Barber School in San Diego, Calif., has customers lined up. Her first regular assignment is to the hospital ship sanctuary, scheduled to take the first women who are not nurses to sea. The ship is being outfitted in San Francisco for a trip to the Mediterranean. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Is your business insurance keeping up with the price of pork chops?

Every day in every supermarket every housewife gets a firsthand glimpse of the rising cost of living.

Ask these experts and they'll tell you the cost of living is about double what it was ten years ago.

Sadly and strangely many businessmen aren't that tuned to today's prices.

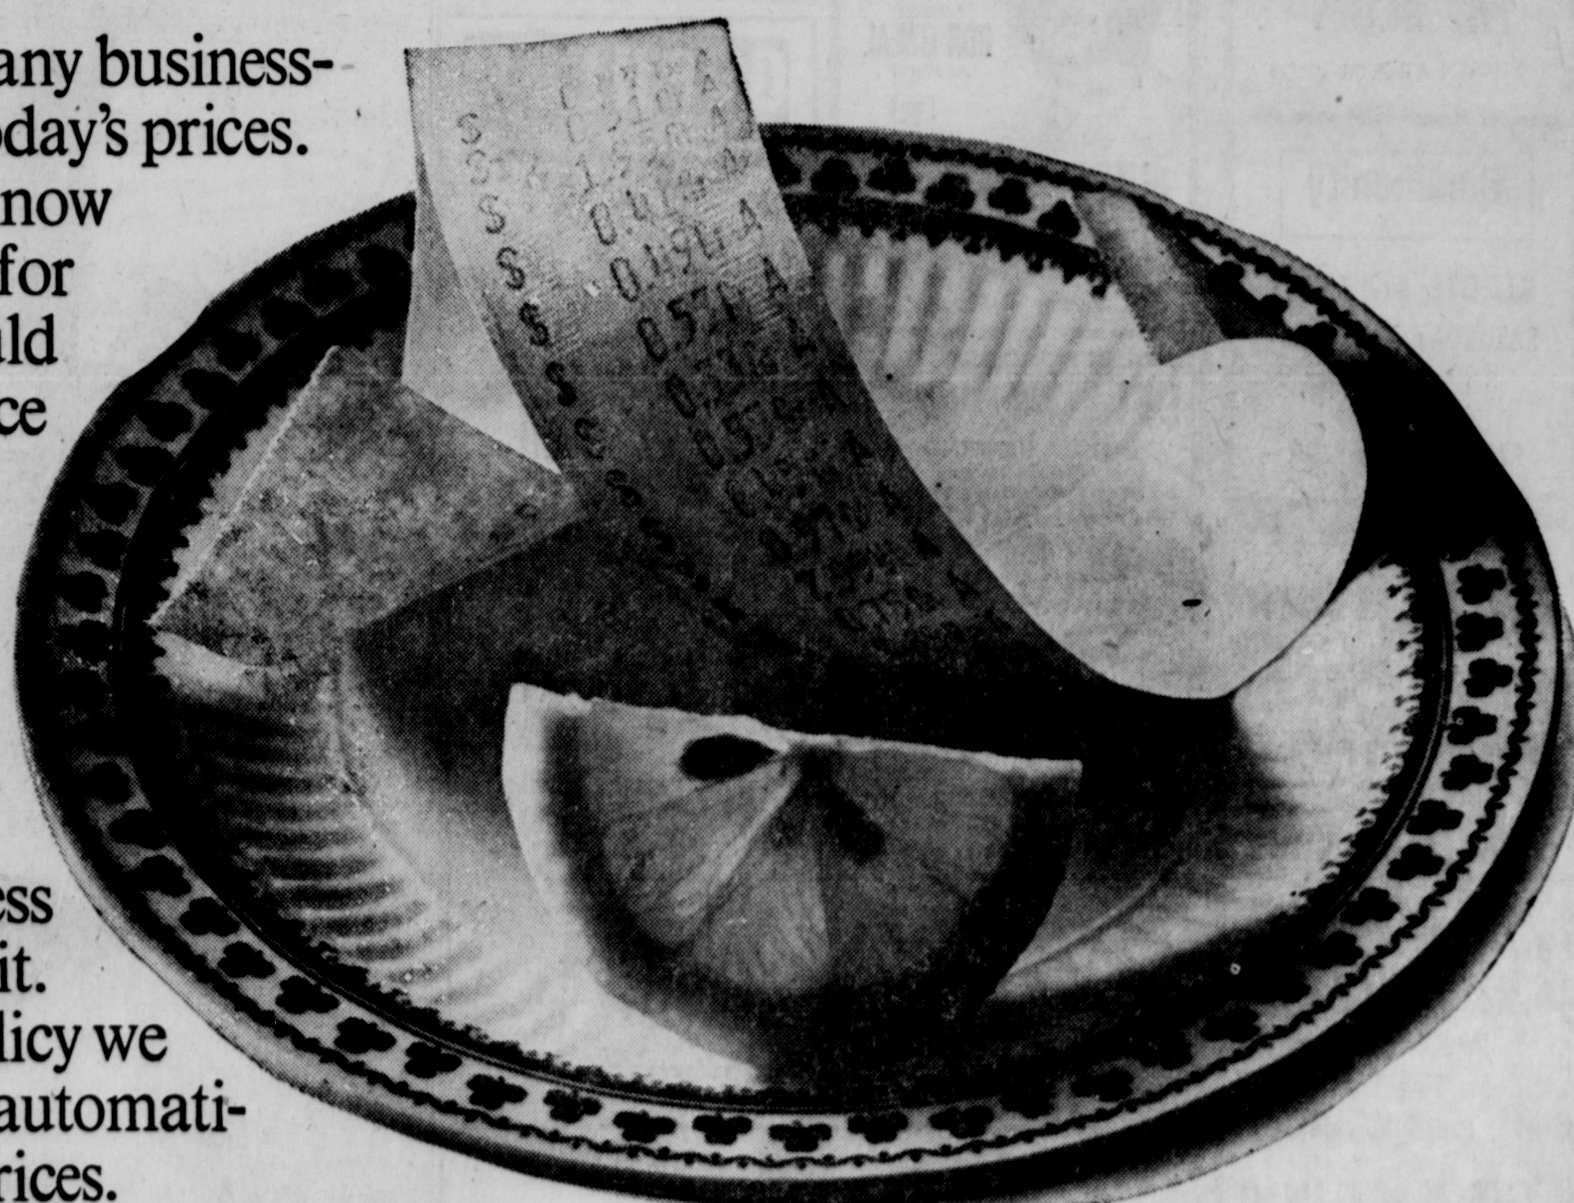

For example did you know that the plant you insured for $100,000 ten years ago could cost you $200,000 to replace today?

Happily, the insurance industry has been more aware of the escalating cost of living than most people and we've developed many types of business insurance to keep up with it.

Utica Mutual has a policy we call "Val-U-Guard" which automatically adjusts to spiraling prices.

Your Utica Mutual Agent can tell you all about "Val-U-Guard." Call him, he's in the Yellow Pages or write us c/o P.O. Box 530, Utica, N.Y.

Nobody may succeed at keeping the cost of living down, but at least you know your insurance will keep you protected.

Board of Education Member Pleads Guilty to Charges

BUFFALO (AP) — Harry Flak, 47, of suburban Lackawanna, has pleaded guilty in State Supreme Court to charges of conspiracy, receiving unlawful gratuities and attempted third-degree grand larceny while a member of the Lackawanna Board of Education. Justice Frederick M. Marshall set Nov. 27 for sentencing. Flak is free on $1,500 bail. The guilty plea by Flak Monday ended the prosecution of defendants indicted by a special grand jury that conducted a nine-month investigation of the Lackawanna School District and its board of education.

The former president of the board, Ralph J. Fiore, was sentenced Aug. 29 to four years in prison after he pleaded guilty to bribery and official misconduct charges. He is free on bail pending appeal. Justice Marshall earlier this month sentenced four other school board members to nine months in prison and levied fines against them. The conspiracy charge accused Flak of agreeing to vote favorably on a bid for new flooring in an elementary school. The charge said Flak received $9,000 after the contract was awarded. Flak also admitted accepting unlawful gratuities from a Lackawanna grocer in return for authorizing payment of claim vouchers submitted by the grocer to the school board.

Soldier Dies In Belfast ... 631st Victim

BELFAST (UPI) — A soldier wounded by snipers Monday died early today, the 631st victim of religious and political strife in Northern Ireland and the third man to die in 24 hours. In other violence, bombers cut the main railway line between Belfast and Dublin and a bomb exploded in the Roman Catholic district of Falls Road. The soldier was Pvt. Stanley Evan, 19, hit in the head Monday night by a sniper's bullet while he and a patrol commander were standing in a front room of a house talking to its inhabitants. Other victims in the last 24 hours included an Irish Republican Army (IRA) suspect shot by troops who said they caught him trying to hijack a car and a Catholic man whose brother died in a premature bomb explosion earlier this year. Bombers interrupted rail service between Ulster and the Irish Republic with an explosion which severed the Dublin-Belfast line just north of the Irish border. Political sources said today that unless the army offers Catholics more protection from Protestant extremists, opposition parties may boycott Prime Minister Edward Heath when he visits Ulster later this week.

The larceny charge claimed Flak withheld more than $1,500 from the City of Lackawanna School District, the proceeds of claim vouchers submitted by a hardware company.

Three Enter Innocent Pleas

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — Three men, indicted Friday by an Erie County grand jury which investigated loan-sharking in the Buffalo area, entered innocent pleas Monday at their arraignment in State Supreme Court.

Samuel Lagattuta Jr., 41, Mario Muscia, 49, and Albino Principe, all of Buffalo, entered the pleas before Justice Frederick M. Marshall. Bail was set at $1,500 for Principe and Muscia.

Lagattuta is currently serving a three-year term at the Attica Correctional Facility after pleading guilty to a charge of attempted first degree grand larceny. He was sentenced July 10.

All three were charged with various counts of alleged loan-sharking by the holdover April grand jury, which investigated loan-sharking activities in the area for the past seven and a half months.

Inmate's Condition Listed 'Poor'

KINGSTON Edward Joule, 18, of Rosendale, an inmate at the Ulster County Jail, remains in poor condition at Benedictine Hospital today with first and second degree burns of the face and hands, sustained early Monday morning when the mattress in his cell caught on fire.

A spokesman for the Sheriff's Department reported that Joule was apparently smoking in bed early Monday morning when the mattress ignited. The fire soon burned out of control. Deputies reportedly went to the inmate's assistance. They smothered the fire, and then transported Joule to Benedictine Hospital.

Joule remains hospitalized today. He is under a 24-hour guard at the hospital. The youth was serving a 30-day sentence for a contempt of court citation that occurred in Rosendale Justice Court.

HOW TO MAKE A SANTA CLAUS OUT OF A SCROOGE.

Gifts. Bills. Shopping. No wonder you start to pull the purse strings tight when the holiday comes around. Worrying about money is enough to make anyone feel like a Scrooge.

But there's a very simple way to take the humbug out of Christmas. Use your Marine Midland Master Charge® card.

It was invented to bring a little joy to the world.

You can buy so many different things in so many different places. Without worrying about money. Because you can pay for them however you like. All at once or just a little at a time.

Why don't you give it a try this Christmas?

Master Charge is enough to make anyone feel like a Santa Claus.

MASTER CHARGE FROM MARINE MIDLAND BANK.

Dutchess Group Names Speaker for Friday

Jessica Zemsky Aronow will be guest speaker at the Friday meeting of Dutchess County Art Association. Her lecture is entitled "Louvre in Paris." The meeting will take place at the Mitchell Furniture Co., 389 Main Street, Poughkeepsie, second floor. Coffee will be served at 7:30 p.m. with the program slated for 8 o'clock.

A versatile and talented woman, Jessica Aronow has expressed herself in many fields of art. She has illustrated numerous children's books, including the Old Testament. She has completed national displays; made travel bureau murals; wall-sized maps for offices; giving art classes and doing portraits. She sketched the New York Opera Company and made a portrait of its director, Julius Riedel. One of her paintings is included in the collection of Roy Chajcin of American Motors.

Currently she is embarked on a sea going venture, an illustrated, automated art lecture series on Great Museums of Europe, shown on the Cunard Lines: the Queen Elizabeth II, and The France. There have been requests for these lectures on a number of other cruise ships including the German Cruise Lines.

All monthly meetings of the Association are open to the public.

Centerville Church Announces Unusual Program for 28th

The apparitions of the Blessed Virgin Mary to four small peasant children in Spain during the years of 1961 to 1965, and her messages to the world, will be the topic of the evening at St. John the Evangelist Church Complex, Route 212, Centerville, Town of Saugerties, on Tuesday, Nov. 28, at 8 p.m. Speaker will be Mrs. Maria Saraco of Brockton, Mass., directress of St. Michael's Garabandal Center for Our Lady of Carmel. Arrangements were made by St. John's Ladies Guild.

Mrs. Saraco is reported to be an eye-witness to the apparitions and has devoted her life to help spread the Blessed Mother's message to the world. She has actual slides and movies of the four Spanish girls in ecstasies.

Mrs. Saraco has appeared on radio and television all over the country. She recently appeared on Albany's Channel 10 "Dialing for Dollars" and due to the public's interest will re-appear on Monday, Nov. 27 at 9 a.m. She will be seen also on Channel 2, Cablevision, Monday, Dec. 4, as well as on the program, televised that week.

There will be no admission fee to the Nov 28 program. It is non-denominational and the public is invited.

Vice Grand Is Installed

Marie Gundersen was installed in the office of Left Supporter of the Vice Grand at the Nov. 7 meeting of Queen Ulster Rebekah Lodge No. 34 which took place in Odd Fellows Temple, Saugerties. Installing officers were Acting District Deputy President Judith Martin, Acting Deputy Marshall Anna Minkler and Acting Deputy Chaplain Florence Gippert. Noble Grand Josie Dederick presided at the meeting.

The next meeting of Queen Ulster on Tuesday, Nov. 21 will be called for 6:30 p.m. sharp to enable members to attend the homecoming of District Deputy President Angelica Loveless and staff and the installation of officers at Tiskilwa in Phoenixia.

A card party for the benefit of the Christmas party will be held in Odd Fellows Temple on Tuesday, Dec. 5 at 8:30 p.m. The regular meeting will take place at 7:30 p.m. All members are requested to donate gifts.

Awards will be made and refreshments served.

Correspondence was received from Leona Moore, president of the International Association of Rebekah Assemblies. Announcement was made that the Lodge will soon be offering candy for sale. The following visiting committee was appointed: Florence Tompkins, Judith Martin, vice grand and noble grand.

THE PRICE OF CONVENIENCE

If you've just purchased a frozen fried chicken dinner, it probably cost more than 110 per cent higher than its homemade counterpart, says Phyllis W. Barlow, Extension Home Economist. A similar roast beef dinner probably costs 25 per cent higher.

Of course, to be realistic, you have to consider that you're buying built-in services and cooking. Convenience foods even though the cost is high may still be your best buy. The careful shopper will want to compare costs of equal size servings of home prepared and commercially prepared foods.

One package of chicken chow mein, frozen, costs about 80 per cent more while another costs 20 per cent more than homemade chow mein (depending on the brand selected). For comparison, however, canned chow mein costs only seven per cent more than chow mein made from scratch at home.

If you make your cheese pizza from a packaged mix, it costs only slightly more than the pizza from scratch. However, frozen pizza, ready for the oven, costs 60 per cent more. Bakery products such as apple pie, pound cake, brownies, sugar cookies, waffles, and baked powder biscuits made from mixes ranged in cost from slightly less to one-third more than similar foods made from scratch.

"In an effort to analyze his grocery bill, a bachelor selected 41 recipes and prepared them with and without the use of convenience foods. He found that he saved 25 hours and 13 minutes by using convenience foods, but that he could cut his grocery bill by 45 per cent cooking from scratch. When he compared the extra time used when cooking from scratch to the money he saved, he found that he was working for 32 cents an hour for the extra 25 hours," according to article in a recent issue of a woman's magazine.

What price is convenience worth to you? It all gets summed up in the following old slogan: "To save money, spend time and energy."

Dear Abby

To Bathe or Not to Bathe

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
10 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.]

DEAR ABBY: In recommending that one bathe and change undies daily, you are contributing to both a water and power shortage!

I was surprised to learn that my physician husband, who is quite acceptable in polite company, bathed only once a week, which is proof of the adage, "What you don't know can't hurt you."

According to dermatologists, unless one's work creates excessive perspiration or exposes him to grime, unpleasant odors or contagious diseases, daily baths are neither essential nor recommended.

Madison Avenue hucksters have sold us the myth that daily baths, deodorants, soaps, and mouthwashes are necessary to life and the pursuit of happiness, when actually earthlings have survived remarkably well without them for thousands of years. In fact, they have come into general use only the last 50 years or so, along with the increase of divorce. Probably more dissension and divorces are caused by hogging the bathroom and appropriating all the hot water than by failure to take a daily bath.

CLEAN BUT NOT FANATIC

DEAR CLEAN: Perhaps I have been brainwashed by Madison Avenue, but I happen to believe that a man should bathe daily, and a woman can't bathe enough! Fifty years ago when one had to bathe in a tub in the kitchen in front of the coal stove, the Saturday night bath made some sense, but not any more. (P.S.: People with naturally "dry" skin should use a moisturizer.)

DEAR ABBY: My husband did something recently that worries me. He insisted that I sign a paper stating that if he should die first I would NEVER get married again. To tell you the truth I never gave it a thought one way or the other, but I signed it just to satisfy him. We aren't old, I'm 44 and he is 45, and I don't know why he is worrying about such a thing now. Far as I know, he's in good health.

I would like to know if this paper I signed is legal. I mean, can he hold me to it?

BEWILDERED

DEAR BEWILDERED: After he is gone, he can't "hold you" to anything.

Storing Hints

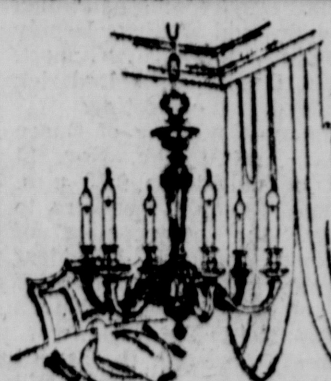

When storing gasoline-powered yard machines—power mower, tractor—drain leftover fuel from tanks and carburetors. Otherwise there will be gum deposits next spring. Also remove the spark plug and inject a teaspoon of oil into the firing chamber. Give the flywheel a few turns to get the oil through. Then replace the spark plug. What else to do: wrap the exhaust pipe to keep moisture out.

SAUERBRATEN is one of the most delicious and naturally, one of the most popular of all meat dishes. The marinade becomes the gravy, enhanced with canned sliced mushrooms

Taylor Lake Country Red wine gives it a deep, rich flavor and fullness.

Red Wine, Mushrooms and Sauerbraten

Within a 35-mile radius of Kennett Square, Pa., there are approximately 500 mushroom producers. Here, more than 68 per cent of the country's nearly 230 - million - pound annual crop is grown, giving the area the title of "mushroom capital of the world." Seventy per cent of the national figure is processed and sold as canned, frozen or freeze - dried mushrooms; the other 30 per cent is sold as fresh. In Pennsylvania, 75 per cent of the crop is processed and the balance of 25 per cent sold as fresh.

The mushroom was once thought so mystically delicious that only pharaohs and caesars could enjoy its fabulous flavor. But that was long before the advent of modern processing technology which has made canned and frozen mushrooms available all year round, all over the country. Low in calories and high in nutritional value, they are an asset to any meal. There are only 15 to 20 calories in a three oz to four oz. can. Mushrooms are a good source of phosphorus, iron, thiamine, riboflavin and niacin.

Sauerbraten (literally "sour roast") is a wonderful dish most any time, but especially so when the days get shorter and colder. A good red wine such as Taylor Lake Country Red is used in the marinade to help tenderize the meat and give it superb rich flavor. The marinade, of course, then becomes the gravy, enhanced with convenient canned sliced mushrooms.

Two teaspoons salt
One bay leaf
Two cans (six or eight ounces each) sliced mushrooms
One-half cup butter or margarine
One-half cup packed brown sugar
One-half cup flour

To Marinate:
Place meat in earthenware, glass or enamel bowl. Combine vinegar, wine, water, onions, garlic, peppercorns, salt and bay leaf in medium saucepan. Bring to boil. Pour over meat; cool. Cover and marinate in refrigerator two to four days, turning twice a day.

Remove meat from marinade; pat dry with paper towels. Brown meat on all sides in deep kettle, fat side down first. Add marinade and liquid from mushrooms. Cover and cook three to three and one-half hours, until meat is tender, turning occasionally. Remove meat to heated platter; keep warm. Strain marinade. Melt butter in kettle or saucepan; add sugar and stir until dissolved. Blend in flour. Gradually stir in marinade; cook, stirring constantly, until slightly thickened. Add sliced mushrooms, heat, slice meat and serve with Spatzle and mushroom gravy.

YIELD: eight to ten servings.

*Spatzle

Three cups flour
One teaspoon salt
One quarter teaspoon nutmeg
Four eggs
One cup milk
Two quarts water
Two tablespoons butter or margarine

In a large bowl, mix flour, salt and nutmeg. Add eggs and beat until smooth. Stir in milk and beat until dough is smooth. Bring water to a boil in heavy four to five quart saucepan. With the back of a spoon, press the dough through a colander with large holes, directly into the boiling water, one tablespoon at a time. Stir the spatzle gently to prevent them from sticking together, then boil briskly for five to eight minutes, or until tender. Drain in colander and plunge into cool water. When ready to serve, heat spatzle in water drain well and mix with butter.

St. Paul's Harvest Festival

Finals preparations are being made this week for the annual Harvest Festival of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Route 9W, West Camp on Saturday, Nov. 18 from 2 to 7 p.m.

Many of the items to be offered for sale are the handwork of some of the women of the church, who have been meeting at work sessions for the past several months.

The festival committee includes Mrs. Mildred Carpenter, Mrs. Elizabeth Biggart, Mrs. Minnie Eberhardt and Mrs. Eleanor DeForest, all of West Camp; Mrs. Kay Anderson and Mrs. Ethel Wilhelm, Asbury; Mrs. Betty Knaust, Saugerties and Mrs. Helen Engelin, Cementon.

The booth displays will include a fish pond and Luther League booth; bake and food table; holiday items and candies; fancy booth; handcraft gift items; plants, jewelry and others.

Members and friends of the congregation still have time to donate baked goods, cakes, pies, cookies and breads. They may contact any of the committee members.

Browns ... In the Running

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Quarterback Mike Phipps and the rest of the Cleveland Browns watched the Pittsburgh Steelers completely stifle the Kansas City Chiefs Sunday.

They entertain the Steelers next Sunday in their big one and, while expressing awe, they are confident of moving into a tie with the American Conference Central Division leaders of the National Football League.

When Phipps hit Frank Pitts on a 38-yard touchdown pass with only 41 seconds left to beat the San Diego Chargers 21-17 Monday night they suddenly knew they had a chance to defend their Central Division crown.

"I watched them on television," Phipps said of the Steelers, "and I saw them shut off the running and passing. I didn't see anything I could do against them but I haven't seen the films."

"Pittsburgh was great yesterday," said Browns' coach Nick Skorich. "They have a terrific defense, but we have an excellent chance. We play Pittsburgh twice and Cincinnati more, and to win your division you have to beat the teams in your division."

The Browns were not particularly strong on offensive or defensive statistics Monday night, but they showed they could hold and move the ball when they had to as they rolled to their fourth straight win after a miserable start.

Phipps, who passed for 186 yards, led them on touchdown drives of 67, 77 and 64 yards, the last coming only 40 seconds after San Diego had gone ahead 17-14.

The defense, meanwhile, recovered two Chargers' fumbles and intercepted a pass in threatening situations.

Chargers' coach Harland

Svare has called this a season of mistakes as his club has made 33 turnovers plus being penalized 55 times in losing six games. They fumbled the ball away on Cleveland's four the first time they had it Monday. And a pass interference call against Ray Jones set up a one-yard scoring plunge by Phipps with only 15 seconds left in the first half.

The game was an exciting one for a national television audience as the lead saw-sawed before San Diego's Mike Garrett capped a 61-yard drive by plunging three yards for a score to seemingly guarantee at least a tie with only 1:21 left in the game.

But Phipps and running back Ken Brown then combined on two short passes before Skorich told them to go for it all. Pitts beat Jones into the end zone and caught Phipps' pass about a step from the end line for the winning score.

San Diego had visions of knocking off Kansas City next Sunday and getting back into the Western Division race. But now they are in the cellar and that's left is being the Browns' quarterback.

HIGH HURDLER — Cleveland Browns' kick-off returner Bobby Majors hurdles over San Diego's Reggie Berry on a third quarter play to the 14-yard line in Cleveland's 21-17 win over the Chargers. Coming from behind to make the tackle is Ray Jones (23). (UPI)

Big Job Ahead for Bengtson

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — Phil Bengtson had a lot of thinking to do on that coast-to-coast plane ride today.

His problem was this: How to turn the season around for the floundering New England Patriots in just a few short days.

Bengtson was named interim coach of the Patriots Monday, a few hours after John Mazur stepped down and only one day after New England suffered the worst defeat in its history, 52-0, at the hands of the unbeaten Miami Dolphins.

Bengtson, former head coach and general manager of the Green Bay Packers and currently personnel director for the San Diego Chargers, said his new assignment was strictly on an interim basis.

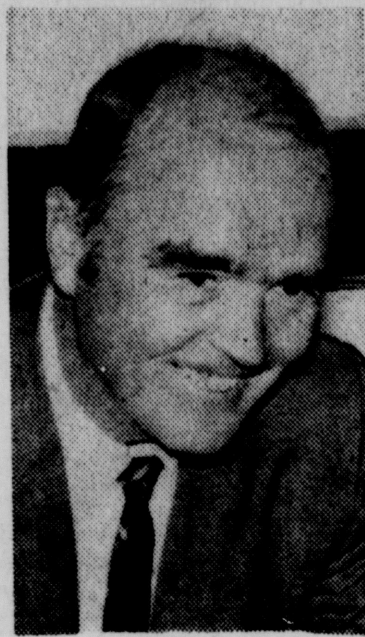

"I just plan to finish the season," he said. "I was really surprised at the change."

He said he planned to return to the Chargers when the season ended.

On his plans for the Patriots, a team that Mazur left with a dismal 2-7 record, including six straight losses, Bengtson said he would think them over on the long plane flight to Boston this morning.

The Patriots said Bengtson, who was named head coach of the Packers in 1968, general manager the following year and held both positions until 1970, "brings to New England a career of more than three decades of college and professional coaching experience."

Mazur, faced with mounting criticism as the Patriots lost heavily in game after game, announced his resignation Monday afternoon.

"I have always placed uppermost in my mind the best interests of any organization with which I have been associated," Mazur said in a brief statement released by the club.

"In accordance with this long-term policy, I am resigning my job," he said.

Mazur took over the Patriots in the middle of the 1970 season after New England lost six of its first seven games under Clive Rush. The Patriots finished 2-12 that year, but Mazur directed the club to a surprising 6-8 record last season that included upsets of Oakland, Baltimore and Miami.

JOHN MAZUR

New England jumped off to a 2-1 start this season with upsets of Atlanta and Washington, but started its six-game skid with a 38-14 loss at Buffalo. The record fell to 2-7 when Mazur called it quits.

Some saw Mazur as a victim of dissension in the front office that spread to the players. Upton Bell, who took over as general manager at about the time Mazur stepped up from the assistant coaching ranks, was known to be dissatisfied with the former Notre Dame quarterback.

As the dispute spilled over, several players became openly critical of the Patriots' front office and there were few players who left the team without taking a parting shot at its management.

Criticism from Wayne Mass about the Patriots recently brought this reply from center Jon Morris:

"A guy like Wayne Mass is cut and he knows all the answers. He says the coach is wrong. But Mass couldn't do the job. We said he (Mass) was the most direct route to the Patriots' quarterback."

The quarterback, Jim Plunkett, insisted it wasn't Mazur's fault. "It's everybody's fault," he said. Some of the guys on this team have the pride to go out and play ball for their own sakes. Some, but not all of them."

While the Patriots were unable to get back on the winning track during the past six weeks, other teams acknowledged they had problems keeping the scores down against New England.

"Tell those guys we weren't trying to rub it in, we just couldn't help it," Nick Buoniconti said after his Miami Dolphins blanked the Patriots.

And Buffalo Bills coach Lou Saban was asked why he removed his first unit rather than seek a big win over New England.

"Personal reasons," Saban said. "Personal. I respect John's coaching abilities."

Mazur worked under Saban during the latter's first coaching tour in Buffalo.

A Re-Shuffling In Football Polls

NEW YORK (UPI) — As Southern California rested, the nation's nine other top 10 football teams underwent a major re-shuffling.

The top-ranked unbeaten (9-0) Trojans, taking a week off while preparing for their Pacific Eight showdown this Saturday with cross-town rival UCLA, remained the overwhelming No. 1 choice of the United Press International Board of Coaches and added four more first place votes this week for a total of 31 and 346 points. After that though, there were changes galore.

Alabama, a 35-21 winner over LSU in the week's "Big Game," moved back into the No. 2 spot as Nebraska tumbled from second to fifth after being shocked by a 23-23 tie with Iowa State.

Michigan, along with Southern Cal and Alabama the only unbeaten major college teams left, also moved up, going from fifth to third after thumping Iowa 31-0. The Wolverines have yet to give up more than a touchdown in any game this season and in six Big Ten games have given up a total of only 14 points.

The Big Ten's other rated team—Ohio State—wasn't so fortunate. The Buckeyes, upset 19-13 by Michigan State, dropped from fourth to ninth as Oklahoma moved up to the No. 4 spot while Texas, LSU and Penn State came in at 6-7-8 respectively behind fifth-ranked Nebraska. Auburn, also idle last week, remained at No. 10.

Notre Dame, which has yet to overwhelm an opponent in the fashion of a top 10 team since early in the season, was eleventh after getting by Air Force 21-7. Only 19 teams received votes from the coaches as most of the balloting was concentrated around the first six teams.

Iowa State, which missed beating Nebraska outright on a failed extra point attempt, moved up to 12th. After that it was Tennessee, UCLA, Colorado, Washington, North Carolina and Arizona State and Utah State tied for 18th.

Of the last nine teams, UCLA, caught looking ahead to Southern Cal, took the biggest plunge. The Bruins, upset 30-21 by Washington, dropped off from eighth to 14th.

Here by sections are the coaches who comprise the United Press International University Division Football Ratings Board:

East: Joe Yukica, Boston College; Tom Cahill, Army; Rick Forzano, Navy; Len Jardine, Brown; Ben Schwartzwalder, Syracuse.

Midwest: Ara Parseghian, Notre Dame; Duffy Daugherty, Michigan State; Bo Schembechler, Michigan; Alex Agase, Northwestern; Bob Blackman, Illinois.

Midlands: Chuck Fairbanks, Oklahoma; Bob Devaney, Nebraska; Don Fambrough, Kansas; Al Onofrio, Missouri; Rod Rust, North Texas State.

South: Paul Dietzel, South Carolina; Bill Dooley, North Carolina; Vince Dooley, Georgia; Bear Bryant, Alabama; Doug Dickey, Florida.

Southwest: Darrell Royal, Texas; Frank Broyles, Arkansas; Bill Yeoman, Houston; Hayden Fry, SMU; Frank Kush, Arizona State.

Mountains: Fritz Shurmur, Wyoming; Chuck Mills, Utah State; Bill Meek, Utah; Ben Martin, Air Force; Eddie Crowder, Colorado.

Pacific: John McKay, Southern California; Jim Owens, Washington; Jim Sweeney, Washington State; Don Coryell, San Diego State; Jack Christiansen, Stanford.

AP Poll

The best football team in the country is only No. 2 in the Associated Press college football poll, according to Alabama Coach Paul Bryant.

"The way I see it, the team that improves the most over a season should be No. 1," says Bryant. "And I think that we have improved tremendously."

Alabama, still second to Southern California in this week's poll, won the South-eastern Conference title Saturday with a 35-21 rout of sixth-ranked Louisiana State. Bryant thinks it proved something.

"It was a great win for a great football team against a great team," said Bryant, overflowing with superlatives.

Before Saturday's convincing victory over the Tigers, Bryant said he thought that perhaps Southern Cal and Michigan might be better than his team.

But not now. "The polls have not been important until now," said Bryant. "But with the season coming to an end, they become very important—especially at the top of the list. As I see it, there's plenty of room at the top for us."

Southern Cal, Alabama and Michigan, the only major teams with perfect records, remained 1-2-3 in the AP ratings, released Monday.

Pacesetter since the first week of the season, Southern Cal received 42 first-place votes and 984 points from a nationwide panel of sportswriters and broadcasters. Alabama held onto second with five ballots for first place and 890 points. Michigan, the only other team to get first-place votes with three, was third on a total of 812 points.

Nebraska, most everyone's pre-season choice to maintain its No. 1 spot from last year, fell to fifth place as a result of Saturday's 23-23 tie with Iowa State. The Cornhuskers dropped out of the top spot after losing to UCLA on opening day.

Oklahoma, a 17-6 conqueror of Missouri this past weekend, rose from seventh to fourth. The rest of this week's Top Ten included: sixth ranked Penn State; seventh-ranked Texas; No. 8 Louisiana State; No. 9 Ohio State and No. 10 Notre Dame.

Celts Take Exhibition

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Boston Celtics have reached the stage where even a no-count game seems important, but stiffer tests lie just around the corner.

All teams in the National Basketball Association and the American Basketball Association enjoyed a break in the schedules Monday night, but the Celtics and the Detroit Pistons kept busy.

A crowd of 8,804 turned out at the new Civic Center in Springfield, Mass., for the first Basketball Hall of Fame benefit game. The fans were rewarded with plenty as the Celtics rallied for a 119-117 exhibition victory.

The Celtics, who have won 13 of 14 NBA starts for the lead in the league's Atlantic Division, repeated their official 121-118 victory over the Pistons Saturday night at Boston Garden. They came from behind with a 30-point fourth period.

hibition, but there was some hot action Detroit's Dave Bing suffered a three-stitch gash over his left eye in the first period, and Boston's Paul Silas and the Pistons' Willie Norwood exchanged punches without damage in the third quarter.

Dave Covens led the Celtics with 27 points and 11 rebounds, while Jo Jo White contributed 20 points. John Mengel of the Pistons topped all scorers with 28 points.

Aeros Raid Office

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Just about every pro team has a bench or farm team to turn to in the event of an emergency, but how many can dip into the front office for help?

That's what the Houston Aeros have done in activating goalie Bill Hughes, a former Michigan Tech star, for duty in the World Hockey Association.

Hughes turned in a spectacular job in his debut Monday night as the Aeros held on for a 4-4 tie with the New England Whalers before a Boston Garden crowd of 8,311.

It was the only game played in the WHA and the National Hockey League.

About a week ago, Hughes was working in the Aeros' front office, concentrating on club promotion and ticket sales.

However, Coach Bill Dineen knew Hughes was around.

With Don McLeod missing because of the death of his father in an auto accident and Wayne Rutledge injured, Dineen called upon Hughes to face the Whalers, who are in the thick of the East Division race.

"He did a great job, just outstanding," Dineen said after Hughes stopped 46 shots, including 14 in the 10-minute sudden death overtime featured by the WHA. "He'll see a lot more action with us."

The Aeros jumped to a 3-0 first-period lead on goals by Duke Harris, Murray Hall and Gordie Labossiere. Brian MacDonald hiked the count to 4-0 before the Whalers got going and struck for goals by Tom Webster and Tim Sheehy in the second period.

John French poked in a rebound for the Whalers at 15:16 of the third period and Sheehy, a former Boston College All-American, tied the count by converting a rebound.

Phils Sign Jose Pagan

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Veteran infielder Jose Pagan, who was released by Pittsburgh last month, was signed Monday by the Philadelphia Phillies.

Pagan, 37, has spent 14 years in the major leagues. He has a .251 lifetime average and has played shortstop, first and third base and left field.

Phillies Manager Danny Ozark said Pagan would be "a big asset to the club, especially at third base where he'll be a good back up man for Mike Schmidt."

Ozark described Pagan as a "top class guy who will be a good buddy and roommate for Willie Montanez."

Montanez is the Phillies' volatile outfielder who had several disputes with management last season.

Heisman Trophy Award

Big Eight Rhubarb Over Rodgers' Past

KANSAS CITY Mo., (UPI)—One of the biggest controversies raging in the Big Eight Conference these days concerns the Heisman Trophy and just what should be considered in the voting.

There are those who think on-field performance should be the only subject considered. And there are others who think character and off-the-field performance should be a criteria. In the center of the discussion is All-America flanker Johnny Rodgers of Nebraska, the closest thing to instant touchdown college football has yet produced.

Rodgers was judged guilty of a service station holdup at the end of his freshman season, a crime that has been widely publicized and has been a detriment to him ever since. Coach Bob Devaney led off the discussion Monday by saying, "I'm in agreement that a man should win the Heisman on the basis of what he does on the field. Any problems Johnny had over two years ago should not hurt him in the voting now. If the Heisman is a character award, it should be listed as such."

Other Big Eight coaches, with two notable exceptions, were quick to line up behind Devaney.

One who hedged was Iowa State's Johnny Majors, who also has a Heisman candidate in quarterback George Amundson. "I don't care to comment on that," said Majors. "I don't know what the prerequisites for the award are. I would say that Rodgers and Amundson are the two best athletes in the country at their positions."

Another was Missouri's Al Onofrio, who didn't make any reference to Rodgers, but did as to how the Heisman winner should be judged.

"I've always felt that any award like that should be made to the total individual," Onofrio said. "In my eyes, it should go to an exceptional athlete and an outstanding personality with character and everything else that goes into it."

Onofrio said he didn't want to make anyone mad, "but everybody has a personal choice, and Amundson would be mine."

Other conference coaches were emphatic that on-field performance should be the only thing that counted.

"I don't think anything else should be considered," said Kansas' Don Fambrough. "I know there's no better player in the country than Johnny Rodgers."

Added Kansas State's Vince Gibson, "Johnny Rodgers is the best football player I've ever seen. If he's the best player, he should get the Heisman and I think he's the best football player in America."

Oklahoma's Chuck Fairbanks, who still thinks his Greg Pruitt is a leading candidate, was less positive.

"I really don't know what the award is for," said Fairbanks. "I always thought it was supposed to be for the best football player and, if it is, Rodgers should be considered."

Fairbanks was asked if the choice was narrowed to Rodgers or Nebraska middle guard Rich Glover, who his choice would be.

"If I voted for either one, I wouldn't be wrong," he said. "But the Oklahoma coach insisted that Pruitt should be considered 'because he's the best back in the country.'"

Pruitt, who gained 1,665 yards rushing as a junior and finished third in the Heisman voting, is not enjoying that kind of statistical success this season. He had his best game Saturday against Missouri, running for 195 yards and one touchdown.

Rodgers has been phenomenal virtually every game. In the 23-23 tie with Iowa State, he caught nine passes for 132 yards and two touchdowns.

Acker's Raiders, the 1971-72 League champions, picked up where they left off with an opening night 70 romp over Hudson Valley Tire.

In other openers, Naccarato's Insurance led all the way to defeat Boo's Tavern, 63-55, and Capri 400 exploded for 50 points in the second half to rout Foster's Coach House, 82-58.

Rod Chando, who has been burning up the YMCA circuit in Kingston, paced Capri with 31 points and five assists. Don Domosa, defending rebound champion, pulled down 20 and Mike Derrenbach contributed

Wills Going To Japan

TOKYO, (UPI)—Maury Wills, 40, who was recently released by the Los Angeles Dodgers, has agreed to play for the Nankai Hawks of the Japanese Pacific professional baseball league next year, Japanese newspapers reported today.

Wills will play either at shortstop or third base and be a coach as well on the team of which former major league player Don Blasingame is head coach.

The manager is Katsuya Nomura, who is also the team's regular catcher and the Pacific League's leading home run batter last season with 35. The Hawks finished in third place in the six team Pacific league pennant race.

Queensborough Tops Westcos for Region XV Soccer

STATEN ISLAND Queensborough Community College was the surprise winner of the Region XV soccer championship and a trip to St. Louis with a 4-0 victory over Westchester in the finals.

Queensborough trounced Nassau, conquerors of UCCU, 4-1, in one semi-final, while Westchester was upsetting third-ranked (nationally) Staten Island 4-1.

Queensborough and Westchester both qualified for the NJCAA national tournament in St. Louis.

$6,000 Prize To Anthony

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Earl Anthony came up with 23 consecutive strikes—including a perfect game—Monday night and finally nailed down first place and the $6,000 prize in the 350,000 American Airlines Open Bowling Tournament at Western Bowl.

The Tacoma, Wash., southpaw, who has taken his third Professional Bowlers Association title this year, and fifth lifetime, was hounded throughout the three-day event by veteran Don McCune, a Munster, Ind., pro, who was trying for his third PBA crown. By the sixth frame Anthony led by 21 and he maintained that margin until the end, finally winning by a 238-217 tally to hold an advantage of 91 points at the end. For the 24-game match play phase, Anthony, who averaged 236 for the tournament, took 15 and lost nine. McCune, who earned $3,200 for finishing second in this event, took 13 and lost four and tied a pair.

Third-place Jimmy McHugh of New York City was 15-10 and received $2,500.

Rounding out the top finishers were Mike Lemongello, Islip, N.Y., and Ernie Schlegel, Newburgh, N.Y. Their payoffs were $2,000 and $1,600, respectively.

Two men from Endicott, N.Y., finished in the money. Gus Lampo finished 20th for $650 and Mike Orlovsky finished 21st for $600.

Here are the match game records and 42-game pinfall for the last 10 scores:

1. Earl Anthony, Tacoma, Wash.	13-0-1	9,860

Denver's Veto Hasn't Arrived, Killanin Says

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP)—Despite a recent red light from the citizens of Colorado, the International Olympic Committee has not ruled out Denver as a site for the 1976 Olympic Games.

"At this time we have not received any resignation from the U.S. Olympic Committee for Denver," says Lord Killanin, president of the IOC.

Killanin, in a statement Monday, added that his organization would release no further information "until we have firm news."

The IOC chief later huddled with his committeemen, but it was expected that a decision on the 1976 Olympic site might have to wait several months.

The issue was brought to light Monday when a spokesman for the Colorado Citizens Committee To Retain The Winter Games went before the IOC to plead for a second chance.

At last week's general election, Colorado citizens turned down a proposal to use state funds for the Games.

Harry Arkin, a Denver attorney representing the Colorado citizens group, said the voters were misled by the proposal on the ballot.

Arkin has already obtained a temporary court order preventing Denver from officially notifying the IOC that it has rejected the Games.

Since the negative citizens vote, several international cities have put in their bids for the Olympics. Among them: Grenoble, France, which staged the 1968 Games; Arre-Falun, Sweden; Vancouver, British Columbia.

NHL Cancels Talks With Russian Team

NEW YORK (AP)—President Clarence Campbell's announcement that the proposed series between a touring Russian team and four National Hockey League clubs has, for the moment at least, fallen through is the latest twist in hockey's cold war with the Communist world.

Campbell said Monday that current negotiations between the NHL and the Soviets have been suspended and that he has cancelled a scheduled trip to Moscow next weekend that was to wrap up final details.

"I think some obstacles have been placed in their way," said Campbell. "Negotiations have been halted and as of now, there is a stalemate."

Campbell did not rule out a resumption of negotiations.

"We'll expect some explanation and verification from them if they desire to continue negotiations," Campbell said.

The NHL's relations with the Russians have been extremely sensitive ever since September's series between Team Canada and the Soviet national squad. That eight-game set was replete with problems but in the midst of it, the Russians expressed interest in a possible return series against several NHL clubs.

Campbell pursued the idea and it seemed set for January. Then, suddenly came a stumbling block—unidentified by Campbell—that appeared to have scuttled the plans.

Campbell did not name the problem but hinted that it involved the International Ice Hockey Federation. Russia is a member of the Federation which requires consent of the countries involved before sanctioning an international competition.

It would seem that the Russians had asked the NHL to intercede in their behalf with the IIHF.

Your Horoscope

Wednesday, November 15

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early part of the day is excellent for whatever has to do with getting emotions and health problems improved. The afternoon and evening bring delays in working out a suitable course of action. Later you can replace depression with constructive action.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Show that you are able to put a fine new plan in operation that can bring real success. One who is usually helpful becomes irritable today, so avoid this person. Relax at home tonight.

TARUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You have a fascinating plan but it needs to be studied well from a standpoint of details. Show patience where new social conditions are concerned later in the day. Don't pressure anyone.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You are able to understand how to handle obligations well, so get busy on them until they are completed. Do whatever will make your mate approve of you more. Be more conscientious.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) An associate is most cooperative during the morning but stubborn later in the day. A public affair is best handled tomorrow since today could bring problems. Think cleverly.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Your intuition is working well in the morning so be sure to follow it at that time, since changing conditions later would do you no good. Show devotion to mate. Avoid gossipy time wasters.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You have the right slant to make a fine deal with an associate in the morning, but it would be more difficult in the afternoon. An outside matter requires a calm attitude for right results.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) A new approach at your work is fine, but don't neglect perseverance that is so much a part of your nature. Don't overtax yourself with too much concentrated work. Plan some time for rest.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Take time for pleasure but don't permit a demanding friend to pull you away from important work you have to do. Use special care in handling project that is vital to your welfare.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) There are problems at home that need early handling or they can get out of hand. Do away with articles that are no longer usable. Replace with the new and the functional. Be modern.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Buy the appliances that will make your work easier and more efficient, but don't make radical changes. Take time to do necessary shopping but don't buy anything you don't need.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Go along with the advice a financial expert gives you although you are not in complete agreement. Study your budget well. Make sure not to invest more than you really can afford.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You are more clairvoyant in the morning so carry through Inc.)

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those delightful young people who can get along well with others and much can be accomplished if the timing is right. There is the possibility of trouble, not only to self but to close alliances. Self-control should be taught early and then this becomes a successful chart. There is much natural intelligence here.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

PARKED: (Q) Paul and I had parked before, but nothing serious had happened. This time we were having a good time at a party and he talked me into leaving early. He stopped in the park and took advantage of me.

He is older than I am. He is 17 and I am 14. I look 17, though, because I am well developed for my age.

I have talked to his friends and my friends and I can't decide whether Paul is just physically interested in me or if he really likes me. I know I really like him. What should I do?—Outtalked in Ohio.

(A.) Stop parking, with Paul or any boy. If a boy has to keep his hands on the wheel he can't talk you into things. But, just as important, it is dangerous for both you AND Paul to be parked at night in a lonely place. A boy and a girl can lose their money or their car or their lives in a situation such as that.

Also stop talking to your friends and Paul's friends about your personal lives. Talk to him, or your parents.

Also, if you have started something heavily physical, drop it. If you are thinking about starting something, reconsider. Fourteen is too young for that.

FORBIDDEN: (Q) My mother won't let me go out with any guys. It's not any special guy she doesn't want me to go with. She just thinks I am not old enough.

I am 15 and other girls my age go out. Already two different boys have asked me but I had to tell them, "My mother won't let me."

She won't let me invite boys to visit me at home, either. She acts like she thinks it is a sin to have a boy friend at 15. Help.—No Dates in Wisconsin.

(A.) It is not a sin for a girl to have a decent boy friend at 15. It is healthy for boys and girls to be together at your age. Your parents should be open eyed and aware of what is going on, but they should not try to prevent ANY going on at all.

The fact is that they can't. And to have boy-girl friendships out in the open is much safer than to have them on the sneak.

Show this to your mother.

'Bonanza' Finale on Jan. 23

NEW YORK (AP) — The Cartwrights will saddle up and ride off the NBC television range for good next Jan. 23 after making "Bonanza" an American institution that withstood anything but time and "Maude."

The series first went on the air Sept. 12, 1959. The stars were Lorne Greene, Dan Blocker, Michael Landon and Pernell Roberts. The show began its 13th season this year on the same date.

But only Greene and Landon remained from the original cast. Roberts had quit after the first few years to find other acting work. Blocker was dead, the victim of a heart attack last summer.

The men of the Ponderosa, in the best Western tradition, had avoided marriage during all their years on television.

It was ironic that CBS' "Maude," married four times, finally felled them in the ratings battle on Tuesday night.

"Bonanza," which had been shifted to Tuesday after years of success in the Sunday night wars, got off to a high-rated start in its season premiere this year. Then it plunged to the ratings cellar.

NBC officials adopted a watch-and-worry attitude, but the show never came back up. NBC's actual decision to cancel it came about two weeks ago, according to NBC's executive vice president, Herb Schlosser.

"And it was a very tough decision to reach and it took much agonizing and much discussion," Schlosser said. "But it was one that was reached because it was the program department's view that the show didn't have the strength it once had."

He said NBC's top brass agreed with the programming to cancel the show. NBC's programming head went West to give the bad news to the producer and stars of "Bonanza."

Schlosser said he wasn't certain that "Maude" did in the Cartwrights, despite the rating evidence: "It just never really caught on. The two-hour opening show did very, very well. But it never seemed to build from that."

Previously-aired "Bonanza" episodes went into syndication — sold to individual television stations — this year. Some stations show them five times a week under the syndicated title of "Ponderosa."

How long will the syndicated "Bonanza" ride the range? "A long, long time," Schlosser said. "That's important because when a show has been on for nearly 14 years a lot of the original shows haven't been seen by many people in the audience."

"And even if they have, after that length of time some of the episodes are really like a new show."

South's bidding was very good indeed. Once his partner jumped from two spades to four, it became evident to South that the grand slam would be there if North held both the king and queen of spades and South's grand slam four was designed to find it out in North's held cards.

North's jump to seven spades was right out of the book. He did hold two of the three top honors.

South's play was not up to his bidding. He took one look at dummy and relaxed.

Then he won the heart in his own hand and led a trump to dummy's queen. East showed out and the relaxing was over. At least the happy relaxing was over. South's grand slam, had

'Baby Lenore Belongs to God'...Happy De Martino Family

MIAMI (AP) — "Baby Lenore belongs to God and we intend to take good care of her for Him," vowed the adoptive mother of the 2½-year-old toddler after winning a widely publicized custody fight which went all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Jean De Martino and her husband, Nicholas, held an emotion-charged news conference Monday after the high court refused to hear an appeal from Lenore's natural mother, Olga Scarpetta.

"We intend to provide her (Lenore) with all the necessities, most importantly, love," said De Martino, who gave up a Brooklyn law practice and fled to Miami with his family in April 1971 after New York courts ruled they had to return Lenore to her natural mother.

"We hope she grows up to be an independent and self-providing individual, happy and well educated," Mrs. De Martino added.

The Supreme Court ended the two-state custody fight when it May 19, 1970. She turned the child over to a public adoption agency four days later, but changed her mind after a month and asked that Lenore be returned.

After winning the ensuing Scarpetta's Miami attorney, Miss Scarpetta went to New York from her native Colombia to give birth to the baby on May 19, 1970. She turned the child over to a public adoption agency four days later, but changed her mind after a month and asked that Lenore be returned.

al to hear the case still left the conflicting state rulings unresolved. "They cannot take the baby back to New York and they have never adopted the baby in Florida," he said. But the De Martinos said Monday they now planned to complete the legal adoption procedure in Florida, where De Martino has passed the state bar exam and now works for a real estate agency.

The De Martinos' attorney, William Colson, said the adoption could take six months to complete and he "felt sure" the family could return to New York.

But the couple told newsmen, "We intend to remain in Florida. We love it."

Ellsberg, Russo May Seek New Jury

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lawyers for Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony Russo are expected to ask for a new jury now that the Supreme Court has cleared a roadblock from the resumption of their criminal trial over publication of the Pentagon Papers.

But trial Judge Matt Byrne of Los Angeles could decide to keep the jury he sent home back in August. Either way there could be some legal risks involved.

The delay, ordered in July by Justice William O. Douglas, apparently is the longest in the course of a jury trial in the United States. It was prompted by a quarrel over government wiretapping and whether the wiretap logs should be turned over to the defense.

The court, by a 7-2 vote Monday, closed the issue for the time being by denying a hearing to Ellsberg and Russo. Justice Douglas and William J. Brennan Jr. dissented.

The next move is up to Byrne. He is expected to summon lawyers for both sides to his chambers late this week and start the prosecution rolling again.

Ellsberg and Russo have been charged with espionage, conspiracy and misuse of government property in the publication of the once-secret study of the origins of the Vietnam war.

Although Byrne cautioned the 12 jurors and six alternates that they should not discuss the trial with anyone, defense lawyers probably will argue that outside influences are impossible to screen out during more than three months.

The defense already has offered to waive the constitutional protection against double jeopardy if the judge impales a new jury. That is, Ellsberg and Russo would give up their chance of claiming in a subsequent appeal that they actually were tried twice for the same crime in violation of the Fifth Amendment.

FAA Begins Investigation Of Air Piracy Safeguards

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Aviation Administration has started an intensive investigation of procedures to combat air piracy in the wake of the weekend hijack of a Southern Airways jet.

Most officials aren't talking about why current safeguards failed to thwart the three men who commandeered the DC9 over Alabama Friday night and held 31 passengers and crew members captive for a 3,800-mile, 28-hour nightmare.

But one FAA security specialist said privately, "We are not yet sure as to why the hijackers and their weapons were not detected in the pre-boarding check."

Asst. Transportation Secretary Benjamin O. Davis said Monday night the FAA had told him the three men were selected for special screening as they prepared to board the plane at the Birmingham, Ala., airport.

Southern Airways employees pulled the three from among other passengers because they fit the FAA hijacker profile, Davis said the FAA told him.

The three men were allowed to board after undergoing a special electronic check, he said. There was no immediate explanation why the men's weapons failed to show up in the screening.

Neither the FAA nor the FBI would comment publicly on the antihijack procedures. The Air Line Pilots Association, which usually voices strong protests following a hijacking, declined comment until officials conferred with the DC9 crew.

Lead Tree Tinsel Gone

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration says that "not a single strand" of lead Christmas tree tinsel should be found on store shelves this Yule season.

"It's gone. We have assurances that not one ounce will be sold this year," said Malcolm "Mac" Jensen, director of FDA's Bureau of Product Safety.

Last Christmas the agency was accused of agreeing secretly with several lead tinsel manufacturers not to publicize an understanding that production would stop Jan. 1, 1972, but sales could continue through the 1972 Christmas season.

Jensen denies it.

"There was never any effort to hide it," he said in an interview. "The decision was made internally not to publicize it because we feared that many people preferring the lead variety would stockpile it."

After the charges of secret-dealing surfaced, Jensen said, "We got back to the industry and said, 'You haven't got a saleable product anymore. You might as well get out of the lead business.'"

At the same time, he said, the FDA asked customs agents to freeze any lead tinsel imports.

Ozzie's driving philosophy: "What I don't see... won't hurt me." She looks straight ahead when she cuts into your lane... goes vaguely myopic at traffic lights... and always fails to see the 'No Parking' signs when the meters are full. Ozzie leans on all other drivers to keep her from harm. It may give you some satisfaction to know that Ozzie got hers. She figured the loss of power she felt lately would go away. It did.
